EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

REMARKABLE—the weather.

THE New York State Senate is fighting oleomargarine.

RHODE ISLAND voted Republican on the 2d inst., by increased majorities.

SENATOR CAMERON is enjoying the sport from the other side of the water.

LYCOMING county Republicans will send Blaine delegates to State Convention.

THEODORE THOMAS, the musician, will sail for Europe in June and remain there until October.

CINCINNATI is going to strike for reform, since it cost her several millions to save her murderers.

MR. WATTERSON, with index finger pointing at Mr. Morrison, insists that "William did it, with his little bill."

AMONG the expenditures of the Government last year was an item, "For manufacturing medals, $24,498,23."

CARL SCHURZ is spoken of by some folks as the right man for minister to Germany. His appointment would make Bismarck madder than the Lasker resolutions did.

IN the fiscal year ended June 30, the Government's disbursements for pensions reached a sum which exceeds by six millions of dollars the disbursements for all purposes in the year 1880.

WHAT more pleasing programme for Republicans can be devised than to elect Blaine and Lincoln President, and Vice President, and for Blaine to select Conkling for his Secretary of State?

THE first through train from the City of Mexico to Chicago over the new Mexican Central Railway, reached the latter city on Friday morning, March 28. The run from the City of Mexico was made in five days.

WILLIAM JONES, who is charged with attempting to shoot Guiteau in November, 1881, as the latter was being taken from the Court House to the jail, will be tried in Washington this month, beginning on the 28th.

A Philadelphia incendiary, who started a fire that destroyed $100,000 worth of property in that city in 1878, confessed his crime a few days ago. Thoughts of his crime troubled him so much that he made an entirely voluntary confession.

To those who are interested on the subject of Mr. Blaine's religious views permit us to state that he is a member of the South Parish Congregational church of Augusta, Maine, where he has held his church membership during the past 20 years. He is a liberal contributor but is not ostentations.

MR. EDMOND YATES, one of the editors of the London World, a society journal, has has been sentenced to four months imprisonment by Chief Justice Coleridge for libeling Lord Lonsdale. He has appealed from the decision, however, and will not submit to the sentence if he can possibly avoid it.

IT is thought by some people that the negro Rugg, who is confined in a Long Island jail under indictment for the murder of the Maybees, is the man who killed Rose Ambler. Both of the crimes were committed in about the same way and Rugg frequently visited Stamford. He denies any connection with the Rose Ambler murder, but detectives are investigating the case.

National Capital Notes.

Volumes of eloquence have been expended at the Capitol on the subject of Whisky, and Education. The result was, that the Bonded Extension bill was killed in the House of Representatives because it had one hundred more foes than friends, and while the bill for Aiding Public Schools survives in the Senate and is destined to have a few more days of life, its final failure is predicted. There was no sectionalism in the whisky debate nor in the vote. Ninety-four Democrats voted for it and seventy-two against it. Ninety Republicans opposed the bill and eighty three favored it. As soon as the long discussion was ended the bill was taken up for retiring and recoining the trade dollar which is now before the House. The measure is likely to be pressed to a vote without delay. The passage also of a relief resolution for the Mississippi flood victims and the disposal of some private measures and pension bills make up a week's work in the lower House.

The Senate briefly discussed the expediency of admitting Dakota to statehood, talked about the war taxes of the Southern States, passed the District Judges bill, and the Greely reward bill, which offers to any foreign ship or persons $25,000, for the discovery, rescue or satisfactory information of the fate of the Greely expedition to the Arctic regions.

At present five hundred measures are ready for the action of Congress, and a resolution for final adjournment on the second of June has been introduced, and is now before the Ways and Means Committee.

The investigation of the Danville riot has been resumed by Senator Sherman's committee. Witnesses from various parts of the State are being examined to show the effect produced on the colored voters by the news of the riot. Senator Vance has also begun the examination of witnesses in rebuttal.

The great River and Harbor bill is on its way to the House from committee with an appropriation of eleven millions. Only the most important rivers and harbors have been considered in the items of the bill. The Mississippi is of course first, and with its tributaries will get five millions.

One of the latest committee reports to the Senate is from that on Woman Suffrage, the majority of which favors the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution to extend the right of suffrage to women. The minority of the committee will hereafter present their views.

The legislative assembly of Utah has memorialized Congress to the effect that none of the pending measures affecting the interests of the Territory be passed without a full investigation by a Congressional committee.

President Arthur thinks the Navy should have a few war ships and some modern guns. He has sent a message to Congress recommending that appropriations be made at the present session for at least seven vessels the cost of which, including their armament, will be over four million dollars.

The President's sister, the hostess of the White House, held her tenth and last afternoon reception on Saturday, March 29. Forty-nine ladies had been invited to assist. It was the most brilliant affair of the series, and a complete ovation to Mrs. McElroy.

The Upper House of Congress becomes more and more exclusive. It has been decided that Cabinet officers are the only "heads of departments" who will be entitled to the privileges of the floor of the Senate chamber, and that distinguished citizens from this and other countries shall be excluded.

No further appropriation will be asked in behalf of the never ending Washington monument, the amount already granted being sufficient to complete what will be the monumental prodigy of the age. Work has been resumed on the structure which has long been in winter quarters, and seventy workmen are on the grounds cutting and dressing the stones preparatory to placing them in position. When the monument is five hundred feet high a pyramidal marble summit of fifty feet will complete it.

Blaine's Strength at Chicago.

There is no reason to doubt, says the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette, that Blaine will exhibit greater strength in the next National Convention, on first ballot, than he did in Cincinnati, in 1876, or in Chicago in 1880. The popular sentiment will be more fully and freely expressed, and the delegates will not be hampered by instructions or so easily swayed by the party leaders. There will be a larger and more liberal exercise of individual judgment than ever before, because there is a wider and more general demand for the selection of a candidate who will best meet the exigencies of the party and give the surest promises of success.

In 1876 Blaine received 285 votes on the first ballot, the whole number being 754, and lacked but 93 votes of a nomination. He gained 11 votes on the second ballot, and when the seventh ballot was cast he had 345, or 33 less than a majority. He was by all odds the most popular candidate and was fairly entitled to the nomination, but his defeat was compassed by influences which it is not necessary to dwell upon now. On this last ballot he received 140 votes from the Southern States, and he should have at least an equal strength from that section in the next convention.

In 1880 Blaine received 284 votes on first ballot, or twenty less than were cast for Grant. He maintained his strength with remarkable steadfastness all through the subsequent balloting, up until the thirty-fifth ballot, when the break was made in favor of Garfield. At no time during that wonderful contest did Blaine's vote fall below 270, and for the most part it vibrated between 280 and 284. When the last ballot but one had been reached, Garfield jumped from 17 to 50, and on the last ballot he received 399, Blaine having but 42. Grant still held his 306, so that it was the friends of Blaine who nominated Garfield.

At Chicago, the States from which Blaine received his chief support were California, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania. He had no support four years ago in Massachusetts, where he will now have a number of delegates. In Pennsylvania he had but 23 delegates, but now he will come pretty nearly sweeping the State. In Ohio, where he had but 9 votes in 1880, he ought to have more than double that number now, and the same is true of other sections. In a word, he has lost none of his old-time prestige and power, and will undoubtedly lead all other candidates at the opening of the balloting. If the South comes up as fully to his support as it did in 1876 he will be the winning man.

THE riot in Cincinnati is ended, but, we judge by reports that the feeling of indignation of the part of the citizens is more intense than ever before. What is the result of the riot? Twenty-three murderers still slumber unharmed in Cincinnati jail—of them all not one was hurt. But forty-one respectable citizens have been shot down like dogs and one hundred and twenty others wounded. The list of wounded may be as high as two hundred as there are many who will never be reported. Thus the worthy suffer while the villains escape unscathed. But, what is the reason for all this? Cannot the Democratic municipal government of Cincinnati and the State government of Ohio, cursed as it now is by the same objectionable politics, show better results. It would not have occurred under Republican rule. But that it will effect a change of some sort is apparent by the utterances, almost threatenings, of so reputable a journal of that city as the Commercial Gazette. Read what it says:

The feeling of the mass that stood before the jail on Friday night was that which pervaded the whole people. Its action was mistaken, but its feeling was no crime, for it was the public sentiment. Not before in America has there been such an array of people and justice on one side, and of police force and military support on the other. Such an array was most deplorable.

To fire into such a people for the protection of murderers against justice was a fearful thing to command. Against a popular mass, having no worse impulse than justice against murderers, there was no call to take desperate hazards of troops, or of the public safety, or of property. Who does not now wish that the militia had not been called into the jail? Who would not gladly exchange the present situation for one in which the men who first attacked the jail had taken out and hanged every man slayer? The rational probability is that they would have stopped with the execution of a few of the most notorious murderers.

Indorse of Course.

It seems to us strange that any doubt should exist in the minds of Republicans regarding the propriety of the State convention indorsing President Arthur's administration. Why, of course, it should be indorsed. It was ushered in under peculiar circumstances, but it has been eminently wise and statesmanlike.

Arthur is not a man who wins the popular heart as a Presidential candidate, but no man living could have discharged the duties of the high position with greater credit to himself and the Republican party than he has done. When he entered the White house indignation and almost hatred divided the Republican party. To-day it is united and strong. Much of the credit for this is due to Arthur.

There were mistakes made in 1880. Perhaps Arthur's nomination was one of them. But by all means let the Pennsylvania State Convention and Republican State and county conventions in every part of the Nation endorse his administration. He deserves it from Republicans, and let us give him what is his due

THE Watchman, last week, took a comprehensive survey of the array of Democratic statesmen (?) and not finding any whose abilities and public services can equal those of Blaine devoted a column to uncomplimentary comments concerning that gentleman. Joe Furey and his lesser satellite, Mr. Meek, so much excel Blaine in usefulness and ability that they doubtless consider it unjust that neither of their names has yet been mentioned among the Democratic candidates for Chief Executive of the Nation.

PORTIONS of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee, Alabama and South Carolian were visited by a destructive hurricane on the 1st and 2d insts. The village of Oakville, Indiana, was almost entirely destroyed. Thousands of dollars worth of property was swept away by the fierce wind and many lives were lost, while a hundred or more persons received injuries of greater or less consequence.

LORD COLIN CAMPBELL, the fifth son of the Duke of Argyle and brother of the Marquis of Lorne, has been divorced from his wife. She was a Miss Gertude Blood, and is exceedingly generous and benevolent. Because of her lovely character and personal charms she has the moral support of the community in the difficulties which arose between herself and husband during the suit for divorce.

SUCCESS emboldens Randall. The delegate elections in Pennsylvania have nearly all been decisive in his favor, and while the leaders may favor free trade, the masses are with him for protection. He has been quick to recognize this fact, and now wants another Democratic caucus at which he proposes to make it warm for his late pursuers. The tiger proposes to hunt the hunters.

THE reports of the illness of Senator Mahone, of Virginia, are no doubt exaggerated. He is sick, very sick unquestionably, but worth a score of dead men for all that.

GEORGE W. CABLE, a wit, concocted a first of April joke on Mark Twain (Samuel L. Clemens), by inducing about 250 of the most celebrated literary people in this country to send to him simultaneously on that day requests for his autograph. The scheme was a brilliant success and a perfect avalanche of letters arrived, most of them couched in ridiculous language and making absurd requests. As Mr. Clemens is not partial to autograph collectors this particular form of communication was not pleasing to him. Indeed, he is said to be angry and declares he will not reply to them until next summer.

THE temperance war has been carried so far in Wilkesbarre that the clerk of Luzerne county court refused to allow the temperance people permission to inspect the lists of signers of liquor license. The interference of the Court was invoked who decided against the clerk. Now the clerk exhibits the lists of signers, but charges fifteen cents for his time at each request. The money is paid under protest and the clerk will probably be sued for receiving fees illegally.

ONE of the American residents of London named Newton has been imposing on Minister Lowell. Our literary representative in the Court of St. James introduced Mr. Newton to the Queen and Mrs. Lowell performed the same courtesy for Mrs. Newton. The discovery having been made that the Newtons have very little claim to such distination, has raised a row across the water.

SENATOR MAHONE, who has been in the habit for some time of sitting up nearly all night writing letters and attending to other mental labor without sleep or rest, was brought nigh unto death's door recently from this over work. He rallied, however, and at last accounts his physician thought that if another chill did not come on he would recover.

THE members of the House of Representatives did an extremely graceful thing by their reception to General Grant on the occasion of his visit to the House on Wednesday. The spontaneous cordiality of their welcome must have been infinitely more grateful to the ex-President than any amount of formal greeting could have made it.

MINISTER SARGENT is altogether too American in his tastes and sentiments to find foreign life agreeable and will return. Perhaps a second edition of Lowell (who delights the British so much) can be found to send to Russia, while it is advisable to remain unrepresented in a country ruled by such a tyrannical galoot as Bismarck.

THE five States of Delaware, Colorado, Florida, Nevada and Oregon combined have not so great a population by 100,000 souls as the city of New York. Yet New York city has but eight Representatives to Congress, while the five States have sixteen, beside their ten Senators.

OF all the combinations formed to relieve the wrongs of Ireland, that led by Parnell was the most promising. But, like all the rest, its influence has been about ruined by the personal bickerings of the leaders. Freedom for that unhappy Isle is yet afar off.

POPE LEO thinks seriously of moving his headquarters from Rome to this country. We shall be glad to welcome him. He is an intelligent, high principled gentleman and will made an excellent and honorable American citizen.

BLAINE is now termed the "Historian of the Kennebec." That is another of the many titles which the splendid abilities of that gentleman gain for him.

MR. LIVINGSTON has been suspended from the Union club of New York for insulting Freddie Gebhart.

GENERAL NOTES.

Brooklyn, N. Y., claims 800,000 population.

Robins with mushrooms is the latest dish in Florida hotels.

Thursday was Fast Day in New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

A colored Salvation Army has just been organized in Charleston, S. C.

The Savannah, Ga., cotton exchange does a business of $35,000,000 annually.

A dynamite school has been established in Paris under the direction of an Irish-American.

The scaffold on which John Brown was hanged was recently sold to a syndicate of relic-hunters for $900.

Eighteen thousand knit mittens and wristlets were knit by students of the Hampton Indian school last year.

The introduction of the Hansom cab system in New York City has led to a war of rates among the hackmen.

The offspring of Henry Wheeler, a Georgian who never saw a city and never drank alcoholic liquor, number 123.

Tattooing, which was at one time almost universal among the Japanese, is now fast dying out, and in the larger cities of Japan is seldom seen.

There were in England in 1882 paupers numbering 1,069,296 in a population of 26,700,000, or one pauper to every twenty-five of the population.

The Oregon wool clip this year will be far above the average of other seasons. It will also be much superior in quality, owing to the good condition of the flocks.

Mr. Harry McDonald, of Providence, R. I., claims to have the smallest bull terrier in America. It only weighs three and one-quarter pounds, and is two years old.

English capitalists have been buying black walnut in Ohio, Indiana and Iowa in large quantities for shipments to England. It is estimated they have purchased $5,000,000 worth.

Some idea of the immense business done by the elevated roads in New York City may be gathered from the fact that on March 29 they carried 809,209 passengers and received $21,004 in fares.

The first tapestry panel entirely worked by Englishmen was recently finished at the Royal Tapestry Works, Windsor, and was bought by Queen Victoria. It is in old Arras style, and represents Balmoral Castle.

Oscar Wilde doesn't charge his audiences the fancy prices which he extorted during his visit to this country. Twenty-five cents will now gain admision to his lectures, while fifty cents will secure the best reserved seat in the house.

It is estimated that over 100,000 misdirected letters annually find their way to the "Intelligence Department" of the Dead letter Office at Washington, where experts redirect them, with the seal unbroken, to their proper destination.

Another Coroner's verdict. It was rendered at Pekin, Ill., on the body of a man found in the river, and declared "that the late deceased had come to his death by a blow on the head inflicted either before or after he was drowned."

An enterprising Indian agent sends the State Department the following happy solution of the Indian problem: "If the condition of the Indian requires amelioration, let us give him corn meal instead of flour. That would be, practically, ameslier ration."

Three students of the Harvard Medical School, who last week passed their examinations, are not happy. One wrote an excellent set of papers, the other two copied them word for word, and the examiner ranked them at 98 per cent. He remarked, however, that as the three papers were identical, this gave the three but about 33 per cent each, and, as 50 per cent. is required for a diploma, all three were plucked.

An English writer on gymnastic exercises says that gymnastics in any technical sense remained unknown in modern Europe until about 1774, when, at an educational establishment founded at Dessau, physical exercises were introduced as part of the system. Soon afterward a certain Galsmuths, of Gotha, published a work on gymnastics, and promoted the practice of them in many places. But in Germany it was Jahn, of Berlin, who first started a gymnasium in 1811.

A wealthy Scandinavian from Bismarck, Dak., arrived in St. Paul, Minn., last week, and said he wanted a wife. At the depot he met for the first time a man whom he offered $200 if he would find him a wife on short notice. The man took him to his own house and introduced him to his daughter. The bargain was quickly made, and, as a guarantee of good faith, the man from Dakota transferred $40,000 worth of Bismarck property to his intended bride. The marriage took place on Saturday last.

Mr. Gladstone recently gave an illustration of the method of faggot-vote manufacturing in Scotland. He says: "I have in my possession a photograph of a hereditament of a single structure, not very imposing in itself, occupied by a single person, and conferring one occupation-franchise, but held by forty-five owners, every one of whom stands upon the register in virtue of his forty-fifth part of this building, which only qualifies a single occupation-voter." The building, it is said, is at Parsons Green in Midlothian.

"An ingenious Frenchman has patented an elaborate process, by means of which," says the Pall Mall Gazette, March 18, "we are to have an electric-lighter ballet at Easter time. The scene is to be the new Empire Theatre, at Leicester Square. The opera to be adorned with the glow-worm amazons in Hervey's "Chilperic," revised and altered to suit modern tastes. Never before has such an effect been seen as a stage darkened for a moment only to be instantaneously illuminated with hundreds of ballet girls in armor, and every point in their stage harness picked out with stars of electric light."

THE SANCTUM WASTE BASKET.

To the Editor the "Old Arm Chair":

Would you kindly allow a small space for the republishing of the "Sactum Waste Basket," which we have heard so much about through the columns of your valuable paper. Would like all who write for the "Old Arm Chair" to have a glimpse of it:

I gather them in, both prose and verse, a sort of literary hearse. Where, consigned by the editor grim, and the articles condensed by him. The thoughts of many a budding poet, as in frenzy wild they gott; and tune their muse, now fast, now slow; but into my portals they surely go. Viator, Fiat, Lux, Justice, Truth; the work of old, the joy of youth. Country scribe and ancient dame, anxious for literary fame; Squibs of Reformers, and officers of the law, find rest in my capacious maw; essays on politics—dead beats, "moe;" thundering diatribes on the American hog. Notes from the folks who take the paper, wanting their names left out of some caper. Country correspondents full of talk at Deacon Smith's new concrete walk. Writers in whose heads you cannot beat that they musn't write on both sides of the sheet The man who swears on the Holy Bible if you don't retract he'll sue for libel. Anonymous writers, cowardly curs, ashamed to own their malicious slurs. Political hucksters' views on the situation, of ways and means to save the nation. Cranks with many an ax to grind, all their works in my depths you'll find. I hold them safely from day to day, till they go the junkman's over the way. Where the weighty tomes and arguments sound are sold at half a cent a pound. Then chawed up and appear as paper white, on which some sensible fellow will write. What is this literary autocrat, you'll surely ask it, why simply the old sactum waste basket.

Whitney's Point, N. Y. WIDOW B. DOTT.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

So many things that might have been
Had our dear child not died.
We count them up and call them o'er,
We weigh the less against the more,
The joy she never knew or shared,
The bitter woes forever spared,
The dangers turned aside—
Heaven's full security—and then,
Perplexed, we sigh—all might have been.

We might have seen her sweet cheeks glow
With love's own happy bloom,
Her eyes with maiden gladness full,
Finding the whole world beautiful;
We might have seen the joyance fail,
The dear face sadden and grow pale,
The smiles fade into gloom,
Love's sun grow dim and sink again—
Either of these it might have been

We might have seen her with the crown
Of wifehood on her head,
A queen of home's fair sovereignties
With little children at her knees;
Or, broken-hearted and alone,
Bereft and widowed of her own,
Mourning beside her dead—
This thing or that, beyond our ken,
It might have been, it might have been

There is no need of questions now,
No doubts, or risks, or fears;
Safe folded in the eternal care,
Grown fairer each day and still more fair,
With radiance in the clear young eyes
Which in cool depths of Paradise
Look without strain or tears,
Reading the Lord's intent, and then
Smiling to think what might have been

We, too, will smile, oh dearest child;
Our dull souls may not know
The deep things hidden from mortal sense
Which find their heavenly confidence;
On this one sure thought can we rest,
That God has chosen for the best,
Or else it were not so;
He called thee back to heaven again
Because he knew what might have been

Our Story Teller.

Uncle Jehoram.

"Girls, girls!" cried I, triumphantly, waving an old fashioned yellow envelope in the sunny September. "I've got a letter from Uncle Jehoram!" "Open it!" cried Nelly Pinkham, who was my first bridesmaid.

"Do let us hear what he says!" chimed in Alice Eden, my second.

So I sat down on the big canvas-covered traveling trunk, with my hair all down my back. I had just unfastened it for Nelly to experiment a little with the bridal wreath—and with the bevy of girls clustering eagerly around me I broke the seal of Uncle Jehoram's letter with all the elocutionary air and grace that I had learned at Mad. 'Institute.'

"Dear Niece," it said, in a queer little cramped hand like the character on a Chinese tea set. "Yours of 21st inst., duly received. Am glad to hear that you are to be married to a worthy young man who is able to support you. Accept my good wishes. By this day's express I send a present which I hope you may find useful; no more at present, from your uncle.

'JEHORAM JOHNSON."

"There!" cried I. "What do you think of that?"

Alice Eden clapped her dimpled hands.

"The old darling!" she cried, It's a real Cashmere shawl, Nanny, you may be certain."

"Or perhaps a Persian rug," said Nelly Pinkham, "all dim blues and green and delicious blotches of yellow."

"The deed of a house and lot," said Mary Moxley.

"Diamonds, most likely," interposed Juliet Garyson, "or real Oriental pearls, each one as big as a tear drop."

"He's very rich, isn't he?" said Alice.

"Of course he is," said I, "at least I've always heard so,"

"And an old bachelor?"

"Yes, an old bachelor."

"But he don't say whether or not he's coming to the wedding!"

"Oh, of course he'll come," said I.

"What is he like?" asked Nellie, thoughtfully.

I bursted out laughing.

"Do you know girls," said I, "that I never saw him in my life?"

And then Harry came in with a delicious little bouquet of white rose buds and of course that put everything else out of our heads. For my hair had to be twisted up in a hurry, and Harry would insist on seeing the wedding wreaths and a veil on, and an exquisite tete-a-tete set of Royal pink Sevres came in from Mrs. Montague Sadkyll, and we never thought of Uncle Jehoram until next day when there was a prodigious peal at the door bell, just as we were sitting down to a gypsy sort of tea in the old school-room—the parlors and dining room were in the hands of the confectioner's men—and Betty, the maid, made her appearance with a puzzled expression of face.

"It's a bundle, ma'am," said she—"Came by express, with Mr. Jehoram Johnson's compliments on a card."

I jumped up, over-setting a cup of tea and a plate of peaches and cream in my excitement.

"Bring it here, Bettie," I cried at once

"Bless your heart, dear Miss," said Betty, "It 'ud take four men to lift it—the expressman, he swore awful when he lifted it up the steps, and said as it ought to be paid double rates."

We looked at each other in a sort of delightful bewilderment

"It must be something very valuable," said Juliet, breathlessly.

"A sewing machine, perhaps," suggested Harry.

"Nonsense!" cried Alice, "as if a rich old uncle would send anything as common-place and poky as that!"

"Well, perhaps it might help to solve the riddle somewhat," said Harry, gravely, "if we were to go out and look at it."

At this suggestion we all rushed out en masse.

There in the middle of the marble-paved hall stood a huge, oblong bundle some three feet high and wide in proportion.

"No wonder the expressman swore!" said Harry, with a shrug of his shoulders. "It's carpeting."

"Oh the dear old creature!" cried Nellie. "A real Aubusson, from Paris. Oh, do open it somebody!"

Harry slowly produced from his vest pocket a tortoise-shell-handled knife and ripped the coarse covering which enveloped the parcel. We all started back.

"A rag carpet!" exclaimed my husband elect

"A common, coarse thing, only fit for a dust-man's kitchen!" cried Nelly Pinkham; while Alice Eden, who had worked herself up to a nigh state of nervous expectation, burst into tears.

"Who ever heard of such a thing?" said Juliet Grayson, disdainfully—"The horrid, mean old miser."

"Girls," I said, recovering myself as best I could, "you must not talk so. Uncle Jehoram meant all in kindness. I dare say he thought I could make it useful—and I mean to accept it in the same spirit in which it was offered."

Harry stooped down and gave me a kiss.

"You're a dear, sensible little thing," said he. "Uncle Jehoram had reason to be proud of his niece."

"But you'll never put it on exhibition with the other presents," said Alice, incredulously.

"Of couse I shall," said I.

And I did. And the girls never knew of the little private "cry" I had all by myself when they thought I was selecting the prettiest flowers to decorate the big bride cake; for I had expected something nice from the rich old bachelor uncle whom I had never seen, and somehow the bundle of striped red carpeting was a disappointment.

But the eventful day came, with its white satin bows and oder of hot house flowers and rustle of silks and laces and Uncle Jehoram's rag carpet occupied a place of honor among the silver teapots and china services and embroidered sofa pillows and countless pretty gimcracks that burdened the "present table."

We had been married for about a half hour, and I was standing beside Harry under the great floral bell receiving congratulations from friends, when a queer little brown face! man, in a faded wig and suit of clothes that exactly matched his complexion, walked up to me, bowing low.

"Wish you much joy, Mrs. Monteith," said he.

"Thank you sir," said I, trying to remember who he was, and failing altogether.

But I had made up my mind he must be the eccentric Methodist minister who lived around the corner, and was in the habit of going where he pleased, whether he was invited or not.

"I've been looking at your wedding presents," said he. "Curious thing, that bundle of rag carpet," pointing to it with his nobby walking-stick. "Should not have supposed you'd have put that among your pretty gimcracks."

"It is rather strange gift," said my husband, "particularly as it came from a rich old curmudgeon who—"

But I checked Harry with a look.

"From a dear relative of mine, said I, whose kind remembrance gratifies me beyond expression."

"Oh!" said the little brown-faced man, looking from Harry to me with keen, bright eyes like those of a bird, "you are pleased with it, then?"

"More pleased than I can express," I answered earnestly.

"Humph!" commenced the little old man. "Would you object to have it lifted down and unrolled? I've some curiosity to look at the pattern."

It was a strange request, but we did not know how to refuse it, and presently the gay stripes of the rag carpet were unrolled on the floor before the astonished eyes of our wedding guests, yard upon yard, backward and forward until, from the tightly packed cylinder, out fell a small black leather box.

"Eh!" said the little brown man, pouncing on it more like a bird than ever.

"What is this? Not diamonds!"

Diamonds in good truth. The scintillating blaze of a necklace—the glitter of solitaire ear-drops that nearly dazzled my eyes.

"Uncle Jehoram! It is Uncle Jehoram!" cried I, the scale suddenly falling from my mental vision.

"Niece!" said the little man, as he ceremoniously hung the sparkling chain around her neck, "if you had scornfully rejected the old man's homely present and sent it back to him, as some young women would have done, you would have never discovered the secret of the old family diamonds."

"Niece, you are a sensible girl, and I congratulate your husband on the possession of a treasure more precious than rubies."

And on this Uncle Jehoram made a curious little bow, like a jack-knife shutting itself up, and disappeared among the crowd. And from that moment to this I have never seen him, although he writes me kindly letters every year, declining all invitations to visit us.

"I am best by myself," he writes. "When I die you will find that I have not forgotten you. Until then let me live on like the solitary old oyster I have taught myself to be."

And the rag carpet covers the floor of our second guest chamber, which is furnished after a substantial style, and the diamonds are the envy and admiration of all my female friends.

Monument for Kit Carson's Grave.

The Grand Army posts and citizens of New Mexico have begun a movement for the erection of a fitting monument over the grave of Kit Carson, at Taos. It is expected that all of the Grand Army posts west of the Missouri will take part in the project. Col. W. S. Fletcher, of Carlton Post, Santa Fe, who was appointed a committee on behalf of the post, said the other day that upon his first visit to Taos he was surprised to find that Carson's grave was in such a neglected condition. For this his friends and relatives are perhaps not to be blamed, as on repeated visits it has been suggested by prominent officials that Congress could readily be induced to make the necessary appropriation to erect a monument. This, however, has not been done. Kit Carson died at Fort Lyon, Col., in the Spring of 1868, and in accordance with his dying request his remains were removed to the cemetery in Taos, and were interred in a lot in the American Cemetery selected by himself. Carson's grave is surrounded by a picket fence 5 feet by 9, and has over it a wooden semblance of a monument without a visible word or letter upon it. This woodwork is rapidly rotting away and will soon entirely disappear.

How to Reduce Fatness.

Riddance of the undesirable fat has been achieved of late by a number of actresses, and they are said to have done it by dieting, not by the use of drugs, as many suppose. The directions are simple enough and yet rather hard to follow. They are substantially the same as recommended by Banting, the Englishman who reduced his weight from 204 to 167 pounds in six months, and then published his experience for the guidance of others afflicted by corpulence. The system consists in abstinence from food that contains starch or sugar; this includes bread, butter, milk, potatos, beer, and all the preparations into which sugar enters. Unfortunately for this purpose, women almost invariably have sweet teeth, but they cannot part with their excess of flesh without giving up sugar. They must consent to live chiefly on meat than isn't fat and vegetables, excepting potatos. The quantity of food eaten may be as great as the appetite calls for, so long as the starchy and saccharine matter is eschewed. This does not leave a woman so badly off as she might at a glance imagine, if she can only make up her mind to live without candy or pastry. She may drink sour wines or sherry, but no port, champagne or beer. Distilled liquors are not objectionable in small quantities.

Too Strict.

In Germany the police regulations are very strict, and any violation of them is promptly punished. The people have a holy terror of the law. Two gentleman happened to meet in Berlin, and the following conversation took place:

Have you heard the dreadful news about Miller?"

"No, what is it?"

"He was in a boat on the river. He fell over board and was drowned. The water was too deep.

"Didn't he know how to swim?"

"Swim! Don't you know that all persons are forbidden by the police to swim in the river."

NOTES.

Contrary to our anticipations, only a few prominent inventors met in convention at Cincinnati this week, and after a very turbulent and stormy meeting closed its session on the 27th inst. without accomplishing the object for which it was intended. The attendance was small, and even among those present, dissension and confusion began at an early hour. Little was done beyond the forming of an organization which is expected to meet in Buffalo in January, 1885. We have not received the complete record of the proceedings yet, but will give full particulars next week.

Congress has at last come to the rescue of the inventor, and Senate Bill 1924 introduced in the Senate by Mr. Platt, of Conn., and the resolution of Hon. R. B. Vance of N. C. in the House of Representatives, will not only meet with the approval of all honest inventors, but is a decided step in the right direction.

Senate Bill 1924 introduced on the 24th inst. provides for organizing the Patent Office into an independent department and for giving it the exclusive control of its building and the fund pertaining to that office. The Bill was called up and Senator Platt made a speech upon it on Monday, the 31st of March.

The resolution of Mr. Vance in the "House" is of the same import, and calls upon the Secretary of the Interior for a report to Congress of such suggestions as to legislation, &c., as he may deem necessary to perfect the Patent Office.

By our own efforts we have helped to defeat some pernicious bills introduced in Congress and have labored incessantly to bring about the present condition of affairs, but to accomplish all that is necessary there must be co-operation among those interested, and we urgently request inventors throughout the country to lend a helping hand in this important work.

We should esteem it a favor to have any inventor write us his views upon this subject, and we will place his letters before the patent committees of Congress.

COULDN'T INSULT HIM.—Last week a couple of Austin darkeys, engaged in laying water pipes, got into an altercation over some insignificant matter, and one of them said:

"I'll jess heap some insults on yer ef yo' doan shet yer mouf."

"What yer talkin' bout niggah! Yo' can't 'sult nobuddy, yo' can't."

"Couldn't, heh, you're nuffin but a po' triffin, wuffless crank."

"Um, dat ain't no insult. Dat word hab been used so much dat de edge am all done wore off. You'll hab to do better dan dat."

"Shut yo' mouth, yo'—yo'—yo' miserable dude. Dar now a man wattle take dat would strike his sick mudder."

"Dude! Why, man, dat's a compliment. Dat's no insult nudder."

"Well, if dem ain't good healthy insultin' words, den I'm froo. I pass. I'se got to de end ob my rope. Dose am all I ebber heah de white folks use now days, an' ef dey doan know how to insult each udder what show is dey for de colored poperlation!"

Words of Wisdom.

The superiority of some men is only local. They are great because their asssociates are little.—[Johnson.

Wickedness may prosper for a while, but at the long run he that sets all knaves at work will pay them.

Devotion is counterfeited by superstition; good thrift by niggardliness; charity with vain-glorious pride.

Style is only a frame to hold our thoughts. It is like the sash of a window—a heavy sash will obscure the light.

Whatever appears against their prevailing vice goes for nothing, being either not applied, or passing for libel and slander.

We can sometimes love what we do not understand, but it is impossible completely to understand what we not love.

Ceremony was devised at first to set a gloss on faint deeds, hollow welcomes; but where there is true friendship there needs none.

Pride makes us esteem ourselves; vanity makes us desire the esteem of others. It is just to say, as Dean Swift has done, that a man is too proud to be vain.

There is this difference between happiness and wisdom: he that thinks himself the happiest man really is so; but he that thinks himself the wisest is generally the greatest fool.

There are looking glasses for the face, but none for the mind. That defect must be supplied then by a serious reflection upon one's self. When the external image escapes, let the internal remain and correct it.

Quick is the succession of human events; the cares of to-day are seldom the cares of to-morrow; and when we lie down at night, we may safely say to most of our troubles, "Ye have done your worst, and we shall meet no more."

Fortune has been regarded the guardian divinity of fools; and on this score, she has been accused of blindness; but it should rather be adduced as a proof of her sagacity when she helps them who certainly cannot help themselves.

No word suffices for the thought; so we use many, as a surveyor uses his triangular series for a measure. When love, repeated and overworked, sounds sentimental, we say true; and Allah is refreshing when God has become trite.

Hawk-Eyetems.

Five thousand cats were eaten in Paris during the seige. What a godsend a long seige must be to a great city.

Kate Field rushes into print to declare that she never had a corn and never wore a patched shoe in her life. Oh, well, that's nothing. We never wore bangs or a corset, either, but we don't think there's anything sufficiently interesting in the fact to brag about it in leaded brevier.

Paul Hayne, the poet, calls a cyclone, "the untranslated blasphemies of hell." It is true, there is something about a cyclone that no living man can understand, but then Paul ought to remember that the cyclone usually drops down out of the sky; it doesn't come up from a hole in the ground. That's a volcano, or an earthquake.

Clara Morris says her "stage tears are real tears." Well, great Scott, they ought to be! She's paid enough for them. The idea of a woman getting $600 for weeping, and then palming off imitation weeps on an unsuspicious, confiding audience that has paid $1.50 for reserved seats. Why, we didn't suppose that any actor or actress of prominence, would cry anything but real tears. You can't expect the property man to furnish emotion, we don't suppose.

The reason why the political prodigal son is never joyously welcomed home again, is because he never asks for forgiveness and never asks to be taken back as a hired servant. He always walks right past the old man, stalks into the parlor through the front door, rings for a bath and clean linen, sets his boots outside the door to be polished up, and swears if dinner isn't ready the minute he comes out of the bath room. That's the reason why the returning political prodigal is never met half way by the party he deserted. He always comes back with more gall than penitence; his appetite is as good as his manners are bad; if he is shown to a back seat he kicks it over; he insists on taking the elder brother's seat at the table, he won't get up in the morning to family prayers, and there is a general suspicion in the family that just as soon as he finds he can't have his own way he will pawn the family plate and go off prodigalling again. And so he will. Away with him! Give him the shin bone; and let him have it right on the nose.

WHERE THE DIFFICULTY WAS.—"Then you love me truly, Elvira?"

"Yes, yes, my darling; truly, most truly."

"And in spite of poverty?"

"What matters mere wealth, when compared to the bliss of your noble love?"

"Thanks, thanks, my beloved, you have rendered me unspeakably happy."

"I would rather be your wife and live in a cottage than dwell in the palace of a prince!"

"Bless you, bless you, my own—but"——

"But what?"

"But I haven't the cottage!"

——A coroner's jury at Pekin, Ill., rendered a verdict in the case of a body found in the river: "That the late deceased had come to his death by a blow on the head inflicted either before or after drowning.

BOTH PERFECTLY WILLING.

If I should steal a little kiss,
Oh, would she weep I wonder?
I tremble at the thought of bliss—
If I should steal a little kiss!
Such pouting lips would never miss
The dainty bit of plunder;
If I should steal a little kiss
Oh, would she weep I wonder?

He longs to steal a kiss of mine—
He may if he'll return it;
If I can read the tender sign,
He longs to steal a kiss of mine;
"In love and war"—you know the line—
Why cannot he discern it?
He longs to steal a kiss of mine

A little kiss when no one sees—
Where is the impropriety?
How sweet amid the birds and bees
A little kiss when no one sees;
Nor is it wrong, the world agrees,
If taken with sobriety
A little kiss when no one sees,
Where is the impropriety?

A True American.

There is a spice of irony in this somewhat extravagant description of a truly American trait:

"Why does that gentleman rise from his seat so quickly?"

"Because he gets out at the next station."

"But we have not got near the station yet."

"I beg your pardon. From an American point of view we are very near it. It is less than a mile away."

"See, he rushes wildly toward the door; now he is on the platform. Is he not in danger?"

"The only danger he dreads is the danger of losing one-quarter of a second."

"Ah, well, we are almost at the station now. Will he not wait till the train stops?"

"No. That would be a waste of precious time."

"There he goes. Good heavens! he has fallen! The cars have run over him!"

"Yes; such things frequently occur in America; but, you know, where one man is killed half a dozen jump off trains successfully. The chances of death are only one in six, or thereabouts."

"They have picked him up. His lips move. He is speaking."

Yes, he says, "I die a true American."

The Coon, the Dog and the Fox.

A 'Coon who was being chased across a Field by a Dog caught sight of a Fox and called out:

"Pray give me your Advice in this Moment of Peril."

"Certainly," replied Reynard. "My Advice to you is to Climb a Tree and Escape the Dog."

He then Disappeared within his Burrow to remark to himself that some Folks never did know when they were well off.

A few days later the 'Coon, who had barely Escaped with his Life, was doing a little Ciphering at the foot of a tree in the Forest, when the Fox came tearing along at a 2:30 gait, his tongue hanging out, his eyes as big as onions, and the Habitual Leer on his phiz faded into an Expression of Deep Concern.

"Hello! what's the Matter with you?" called the 'Coon.

"I am Pursued by a Dog, and I can't run a mile further! What shall I do?"

"My Advice is that you dive into your Burrow and escape him,' said the 'Coon.

He then slowly Climed to a limb and Remarked to himself that a Fox who was Idiot enough to Travel around the country Without carrying his Burrow on his back would sooner or later come to some Bad End.—Detroit Free Press.

A Badge of Mourning.

"Well, Brown was a good fellow and I am sorry he is gone," said a Western editor to the proprietor of the paper. "He worked hard all his life and died poor, the way of most newspaper men."

"Yes," responded the proprietor, with considerable feeling, "Brown was a good printer and it will be hard to fill his place."

"I suppose we ought to attach something to the door in the shape of a badge of mourning for a little while," suggested the editor.

"It would be a good idea, but I don't believe there is anything about the place that would answer the purpose, and in the present feeble financial condition of the concern I don't feel like putting out any money for crape."

"No," mused the editor, "it would be better to settle up back salaries first, but now I think of it, I know just the thing.'

"What is it?" asked the proprietor.

"We might hang out one of the composing-room towels."—Phila. Call.

Colonel Duffy's Great Barn Burned

COLUMBIA, Pa., April 1.—This evening about eight o'clock flames were discovered issuing from the immense barn located on the Haines farm, belonging to the estate of Colonel James Duffy, near Marietta. In a short time the barn and all of the extensive outbuildings were leveled to the ground by the flames. An immense stock of grain, agricultural implements and twelve head of blooded stock were consumed by the flames. The loss cannot now be estimated, but is very large. New tenants occupied the farm to-day and it is believed that the carelessness of some one of them caused the conflagration. So bright was the illumination at Columbia, five miles distant, that the fire department of the town was called out.

The Ladies want Protection.

If ladies could vote, the doctrine of protection to American industries would gain the support of them all, and they would forever overthrow the subtle sophistry of free trade. Two of these sweet creatures met in a Bellefonte parlor a few days ago and, strange to say, began to discuss politics.

"It seems to me," said one of the ladies as she looked up with a half-sigh toward the other, "that the newspapers now discuss nothing but tariff, free trade, protection, etc. There's the Watchman that has just begun to print articles in favor of that horrid free trade idea, and to say that a revenue for protection is all wrong. It seems to me that the Democrats are afraid that we ladies will get too much revenue and will take away our natural protectors, too I wonder if that means our husbands and brothers and lovers and such protectors. For my part I would like both revenue and protection, wouldn't you?" "Yes, that's it," returned her companion; "I never comprehended it so clearly before. And free trade, I suppose, is something like free love. Those perfectly dreadful people, you know, who think a man should love every woman just the same as free lovers, and free traders believe that when a man is tired of his wife he should be permitted to trade her off for another. My man shall vote with the Protection party this time or my name's not Matilda Spoopendyke."

"Ah!" said the first speaker; "there are so many beauties about the doctrine of Protection which have not yet been fully developed. Whenever you walk along Howard street where all those cows congregate, if one of them runs at you all that is necessary is to utter a little scream and the protecting arm of some gentleman will steal around you and with the other he will grasp the cow by the horns. Men will only have to work eight hours a day for high wages and will have plenty of time and money to buy ice cream in the evening. That will make ice cream dealers rich, you know, and will produce a large crop of ice next winter. Over in England where they have free trade the people are troubled with dynamite, Fenians, Parnellites and all such animals. They never come to a Protection country. Protection will change all the Hungarians, Italians and Chinese into Americans and make the tramps respectable members of society again. Ah, some of the men consider themselves so strong that they don't need any protection, but they ought to vote for it just for our sakes."

"Thank you for your instructive explanation," said the other lady as she rose to depart; "I've been thinking for some time that the free trade discussion caused the great flood in the Ohio and, and now I'm sure of it; because the worst one of all the free traders believes in having too much water, and they call him Watersfather or Watterson, I forget which. Good day."

Then the brief conversation closed. If the ladies don't understand politics exactly, it is evident their conversation contained many forcible truths.

WOULDN'T HAVE DONE IT.—Little Nell—Whatchurch were you married in, grandma?

Grandma—I was not married in a church, dear.

Little Nell—Was you married at home?

Grandma—No, dear, I was a very naughty girl, and ran away with your grandpa.

Little Nell—Mercy me! I'd never run away with such a fussy old gentleman as grandpa.—Philadelphia Call.

——A fragment of conversation between two young girls: "Do you know what a preface is?" "No; do you?" "Not exactly; only I know that it is at the beginning of books." "Oh, well then it must be the same as when we are courted before entering upon marriage."

——Frederick Albert and George Nye, two coal miners, living near Mount Carmel, did not live happily with their wives and they agreed to trade wives. The women also agreed and the exchange was made. The men remain friends.

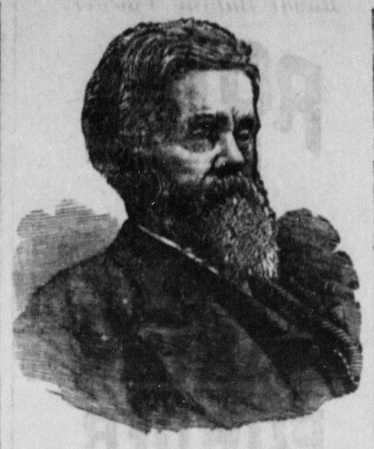
——"There are no nice little stories about the return of the "prodigal daughter." The son can return and have the finest kind of veal served up for him, but the daughter must stay away.

——Asked what he thought would be done with the American hog, Mr. Robert Ingersoll replied with bitter sarcasm that he thought "he would continue to get most of the offices."

Humor in the Stomach.

Much of the distress and sickness attributed to dyspepsia, chronic diarrhœa and other causes is occasioned by humor in the stomach. Several cases, with all the characteristics of these complains, have been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Other cures affected by this medicine are so wonderful that the simplest statement of them affords the best proof that it combines rare curative agents and when once used secures the confidence of the people.

That was a bright prison chaplain who, when asked by a friend how the parishoners were, replied: "All under conviction."



THE GREAT DR. DIO LEWIS.

His Outspoken Opinion.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious, and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical profession stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leaves room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of those happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

How Watch Cases are Made.

In 1875, thirteen men comprised the entire working force used in the manufacture of the James Boss' Gold Watch Case. Now over five hundred are employed, and the number is constantly increasing. The reason of this increase is this: In the James Boss' Gold Watch Case all the metal in sight and subject to wear is solid gold, while the remainder, which only lends strength to the case, is of stronger metal than gold, giving gold where gold is needed, and strong, elastic metal where strength and elasticity are needed, a combination producing a watch case better than solid gold and at ONE-HALF the cost.

Over 200,000 of these cases have been sold, and every jeweler in the country can testify to their quality and merit.

LUDINGTON, MICH., Dec. 5, 1882.

E. W. Marsh, of the Democrat, bought a Jas. Boss' Gold Watch case 18 years ago, and carried it until a short time ago, when I purchased it, and sold it to a customer. The case showed no signs of wear, except that natural to any case, and I am satisfied can be safely guaranteed for at least ten years more. I have sold the James Boss' Gold Watch Case for many years, and the parties who bought the first ones are carrying them to-day, as well satisfied as though they had bought a solid gold case costing twice the money. I regard them as the only cases of this kind a jeweler should sell who desires to give his customers the worth of their money or values his reputation.

WM. J. CUSHWAY, Jeweler.

An Ocean Horror.

HALIFAX, April 4.—The steamer Daniel Steinman, from Antwerp, for this port, is reported sunk off Sambro about twenty miles from this port. She struck during last night, and only nine men are so far reported to have escaped to land, out of 140 on board.

Further Particulars.

HALIFAX, April 4.—Intelligence received here thus far from the wreck of the Daniel Steinman is very meagre. It is said that the captain and five of the crew were the only persons saved. The steamer had ninety passengers and a crew of thirty-four. Twenty of the passengers, all Germans, were to land here, and seventy were for New York. It is thought that the Steinman struck on the Sisters off Sambro last night and shortly afterward sank. Her masts are visible from the shore.

The tugs which left here for the scene of the wreck have returned without having been able to reach the neighborhood of the steamer owing to the rough sea. Another attempt will be made in the morning to reach the wreck if the weather moderates.

LATER.—Three passengers were saved with the captain and five of the crew. Their names have not yet been ascertained. They are all on Sambro Light island, the only communication with which is by signal in rough weather. To-night the weather is thick and rainy and it is uncertain whether any further particulars can be had. Reporters have left for Sambro by land but the roads are bad and even when there their chances for securing information to-night are small.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 6.—Captain Henry Schoonhoven, the only officer of the unlucky ship Daniel Steinman, not drowned, gives the following details of the unfortunate catastrophe: "We sailed from Antwerp on the afternoon of March 20, bound to Halifax and New York with a cargo of general merchandise and ninety immigrant German passengers and a crew numbering thirty-four men on board. We had a fine voyage till we reached the banks of Newfoundland, which were crossed in latitude 44 degrees 43 minutes, running through some patches of field ice. Thence almost continuous fog and rain were experienced till the coast of Nova Scotia was reached. Our last observations were taken on the morning of the 2d inst. About 6 o'clock on the evening of April 3 the bearings of Chedabucto light by dead reckoning and soundings were west half south by compass, distance twenty-five miles. The steamer was making dead slow headway, as a heavy fog and rain prevailed. The course steered was west one quarter south, and soundings were taken every hour.

"The ship came near the breakers and before I could reach the forecastle an immense sea broke over the poop, and in the twinkling of an eye every passenger on deck, men, women and children, were swept off. A fearful crash immediately followed, and the ship plunged beneath the water like a flash of lightning, going down stern first. Everybody remaining on deck and on the bridges went down with the ship as she sank. I ran up the foreriggging, but before getting half way was washed out. Afterward, however, I succeeded, though with great difficulty, in reaching the topsailyard, which rose just above the sea. After securing myself there I was joined by one of the passengers. The night continued foggy and rainy, and consequently very dark, and nothing could be observed anywhere about us. About 5 o'clock in the morning I could make out the land several hundred yards off. I was just about preparing to partly strip myself and swim toward it when I saw one of my steamer's boats make out from the shore."

The Condition in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, April 3.—The military has been gradually withdrawn until now but a few hundred remain on guard around the jail and other public buildings. Business is now going on as quietly and orderly as before the outbreak. The criminal court has been temporarily established in the armory rooms, corner of Court and Walnut streets. The prosecuting attorneys have also opened offices in the building. The grand jury also met to-day in a room in the same building. They at once proceeded to the finding of indictments of all parties now under arrest for participating in the outbreak.

The work of recovering books from the ruins of the burned court house building is being vigorously prosecuted. Mr. A. A. Ferris has been sworn in as custodian, and will take charge of all papers recovered. Many of the books belonging to the sheriff's office have been already recovered and other books of record from other county offices are known to have been saved. Quarters are being rapidly fitted up for the county clerk, and the business of that office, it is believed, will be resumed to-morrow.

A portion of the barricades on Sycamore street near the jail remain as a rallying point in case of any further attack. The lower portion of the court house will soon be protected by boards to keep out the crowds. The militia on duty is the Seventeenth regiment, who patrol the sidewalks all around the court house and jail and keep anybody from trespassing nearer than the curbstone. It is thought almost every building in the vicinity is marked by bullet holes, which ordinarily would draw crowds of sight-seers. Comparatively few people are about, however, and they keep moving.

The Temperance War.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 4.—Ira N. Marcy, editor of the Valley Sentinel, of Pittson, and the leader of the temperance organizations petitioned the court yesterday to allow him to inspect the petitions for saloon licenses and a pre emptory order on the clerk of the court to allow it. Judge Woodward issued the order as desired this afternoon, holding that the records of the quarter sessions are public records open to the inspection of citizens at all proper times. The clerk now proposes to charge fifteen cents for the search in each case, which will be paid under protest, and the clerk prosecuted for receiving illegal fees, as the fee bill will not warrant such a charge. Judge Woodward's opinion is held as sensible and sound by all but the injured.

The Randall Boom in Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—The Times recently addressed all the Democratic committees in Pennsylvania, asking for answers to the following questions: First. Who is the favorite of the Democrats of your county for president. Second. Do the Democrats of your county generally favor tariff for revenue only. Of sixty-seven chairmen in the state sixty replied to-night, fifty of whom unhesitatingly declared Randall to be the choice for president and the others declaring for Tilden or Randall. Only one county mentions any other candidate, Green county declaring for Hancock. Most of the replies favor tariff with incidental protection, though many of them simply express a choice for president without referring to the tariff question.

Third attempt to Burn a Town.

CHRISTIANA, Pa., April 6.—John Acres' new livery stable caught fire last night and the building and contents were entirely destroyed. The building had just been completed. Sheeler's carpenter shop was also burned with contents. Loss not ascertained. The Masonic hall and J. D. Harrar & Son's store were also on fire, but the firemen saved the building. The citizens intend organizing a vigilance committee at once, as this is the third attempt to burn the town.

Struck by Lightning.

NEVADA, Ohio, April 3.—A school house three miles north of here was struck by lightning yesterday. Myritte McCurdy and Frank Christie had their clothes burned off and the flesh badly scarred. Miss Sarah Garrigus and Elsie Foster were thrown to the floor and rendered unconscious. Their injuries will not prove fatal. Several others were thrown and stunned. The bolt struck the chimney, came down the stovepipe, burst the stove, and entered the earth through the floor.

The Crops in the West.

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—The secretary of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture, who has received reports from every county in the State, says the average of the growing wheat is ninety-six per cent. and is improving. He also states that the percentage of wheat now in the hands of producers is seventeen and one-half, and of corn twenty-four. Peaches have been severely injured. Apples promise fairly, but the crop of small fruits will be short.

Burned by an Explosion.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., April 3.—An explosion of powder occurred in a cross-heading in a breast of Mount Carmel colliery this afternoon, horribly burning John Shovelowsky and seriously injuring Francis Entowk and another miner. The explosion was caused by a spark falling into a keg of powder while Shovelowsky was preparing a cartridge.

Strike of Fayette Stonecutters.

CONNELLSVILLE, April 3.—The stonecutters in the Fayette county quarries struck yesterday for an increase of 20 per cent. in wages. They have notified their fellowcraftsmen to accept no employment in the quarries until the dispute is settled.

President Arthur Left.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 6.—At the Abbeville county republican convention on Saturday an effort was made to elect an Arthur delegate to the republican state convention, but it was signally defeated. This is the first republican county convention held in the state at which a direct effort has been made to elect Arthur delegates and the defeat is regarded as significant.

Mr. Newton and Mr. Lowell.

LONDON, April 3.—Referring to the recent announcement of the Gazette that the request for the presentation of Mr. and Mrs. Newton of New York at the Queen's levee on March 20, was withdrawn at the American Minister's suggestion, Mr. Newton says that the withdrawal was due to a private dispute between himself and Mr. Lowell.

Judgment against a Railroad.

ST. LOUIS, April 4.—The Cleveland Rolling Mill Company, of Cleveland O., obtained judgement to-day in the United States Circuit Court against the Texas and St. Louis Railroad Company for $79,448. The suit is on a contract for the delivery of 45,000 tons of Bessemer steel rails.

Greater Tariff on Wool.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—A petition signed by 87 citizens of Washington county, Pa., was presented to the House by Mr. Lawrence this morning, asking for the restoration of the tariff on wool as levied by the act of 1867. Colonel Morrison says the tariff on wool must take still another tumble.

He Absolutely Declines.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—Senator Miller to-day sent a dispatch from Washington to the Republican State Central committee absolutely declining the presidential candidacy.

Weds a Prince.

PARIS, April 3.—Miss Goddard, an American, was married to day to Prince Peniatowski. The register was signed by Mr. Morton, the United States Minister.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

—Last week Valentines & Co. disposed of a dozen of their mules and are negotiating for the sale of all the others. This means that they have a sufficient quantity of ore and coke hauled for present use and by the time more is needed they will not find it necessary to transport ore in this manner, for the reason that the iron horse will then come to their very doors and the railroad company will carry such things easier and cheaper for them than men and mules do it now. The Valentines are far-sighted business men and they evidently thoroughly appreciate the benefits the projected lines of new railroad will bring to them when completed.

The Place to Buy Furniture,

The ware-rooms of the Messrs. Brachbill on Spring street are filled from end to end with a splendid stock of furniture. The bed-room sets of furniture are particularly beautiful, including mahogany, ash, cherry, walnut and other choice kinds at amazingly low prices. In a few days the most elegant parlor furniture ever brought to town will be displayed, including some of the extremely fashionable groups. It will not be necessary for those who desire to decorate their houses in first-class style to send to the city for furniture. Before purchasing elsewhere inspect Brachbill's furniture and you will be surprised at the display.

—We have heard much complaint regarding the number of street fights which occurred in this place about 11 o'clock Saturday night. One man was terribly beaten, and others were severely hurt. It is only a miracle that one or more persons were not killed. This condition of affairs cannot be be expected to improve while the wholesale granting of licenses is permitted and leniency on the part of the Court in dealing with criminals continues.

We feel that we are doing the public a favor in calling their attention particularly to Hood's Sarsaparilla. This is not a patent medicine, but a proprietary article, possessing real curative properties, and its effects upon the blood are very positive. Spring Debility, Biliousness, Dyspepsia and all troubles caused by impure blood readily yield to this excellent medicine. We think those who give it a trial for that "out of sort" feeling from which so many suffer and which is peculiar to this season, will be quite satisfied with the result.

—A man named Cohick, a lumberman who formerly operated in the vicinity of Philipsburg, and suddenly disappeared, greatly to the chagrin of numerous creditors, was arrested last week at Jersey Shore and brought to this place on Saturday. He now languishes in jail.

—The telephone wires are being extended to all points of the compass. Among the most recent additions are A. V. Smith's grocery and R. M. Magee, Esq's., residence.

—Mr. James Irvin says that we will surely have another snow. How dare you make such a prediction, James?

A Word with a Railroad Man.

"Good evening, Mr. Mackey," we exclaimed as we saw the Hon. L. A. Mackey of Lock Haven in a convenient situation Friday night for imparting railroad information. "I was not aware you were in town. How's—railroads?"

"Oh, yes;" that exceedingly pleasant gentleman responded. "I frequently come to Bellefonte. The railroad in which I am directly interested (the B., N. and L.) is making progress slowly, but nevertheless surely. Mr. White, the engineer, is now in Philadelphia and the preliminary arrangements indicate that the road will surely be let within the next two weeks, and also the branch down Nittany Valley to Hublersburg by way of the Ross farm."

"How long will that branch be, Mr. Mackey?"

"It will be about nine miles in length," returned that gentleman. "By the way, I see that work has been commenced on the Bellefonte and Beech Creek road. I am glad of that. It will have the effect of stirring us up. I am in favor of all the roads that can be built provided that some other persons will invest their money in them. Then the multiplied number of roads will not materially affect the receipts of any one of them. If the rates of passenger travel and freight are reduced the number of travelers and amount of shipments will be proportionately increased. That is the invariable rule."

"Oh, yes;" returned the reporter. "There are adults in Centre county who have never yet traveled beyond their native bailiwick."

"I dare say that is true," returned Hon. L. A., "but we shall give them a glimpse of the world ere long."

—The Centre Democrat local wants the girls to organize some more clubs. If he had heard a threat made by a certain young lady of our acquaintance in regard to the use she expects to make of the next club she has anything to do with, he would probably wear a coat and helmet of mail the next time he ventured forth to encounter aforesaid female.—News.

Now, say, Newt., look here; don't leave us in the dark like that. Could you not have informed us who the yonng lady in question is, in order that we might keep on the alert? We have no helmet of mail, nor do we want any helmet fe-male in our dish. If we were good at guessing, we should simply ask if it were anv of the young ladies who tried, but failed so ingloriously, to learn you how to make aprons and sew carpet rags, a few evenings since.—Democrat.

We take exception to two allusions in the above. There was no failure. Of course, the young ladies never failed in anything they undertook and it is not gallant to charge them with inglorious failure. Then the use of that word "learn." Shakespeare used it in the same way, but Webster says: "This use of learn is found in respectable writers, but is now deemed improper as well as inelegant." Remember you are writing for a Nineteenth century journal, and we were learning the mysteries of sewing carpet rags while the young ladies were our gloriously successful teachers. Their part in the performance was to teach not learn. But suppose you tell us in your next issue who has been "telling tales out of school" about our carpet rag performances.

Death of Mrs. Thomas Quick.

On Wednesday night at eleven o'clock Mrs. Thomas Quick, of near Milesburg, died after a lingering illness of consumption. She leaves a husband and five children to mourn her departure. In this hour of trial they have our earnest sympathy. Her husband, Mr. Thomas Quick, is well known in Bellefonte as a local expressman, and the deceased lady had a wide circle of acquaintances to whom the news of her death will be a severe shock. She was the daughter of Mr. Thomas Stanley.

The funeral services over the body of the deceased was held on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

—A reporter who stepped into the insurance office of Messrs. Bond Valentine and James Rankin, on Friday, was much pleased with it and pronounces it a model of neatness and comfort. Another commendable feature of the establishment was especially noticeable, and a prominent gentleman who also came in about the same time avers that any persons who come in contact with either of the gentlemen mentioned, must, of necessity, acquire habits of punctuality. Any explanation desired will be cheerfully given by Mr. S. S. Lyon.

—This is the most important week in the Christian year, and is commonly designated as Great Week, or Holy Week. Ushered in by Palm Sunday, each day of the week commemorates some special event in the closing period of Christ's life, reaching a culmination on Good Friday. Then an absolute quietness, waiting, watching intervenes until Easter Sunday, which is attended by songs of joy and praise.

Loveville Locals.

LOVEVILLE, April 2, 1884.

Tuesday, the first of April, generally known as moving day, was in no wise a deviation from the old custom, as the numerous wagons laden with household goods passing to and fro, abundantly demonstrated.

Mr. Curtin G. Rook, who had purposed going to Williamsport last Monday, March 31, to attend school at Dickinson Seminary, postponed his departure for one week owing to the illness of his sister.

Mr. James Blackburn and sister, Miss Kate, intend starting for the Sunny South on Thursday evening, April 3, the objective point of their journey being, I believe, Union Bridge, Maryland.

To-day, April 2d, is the closing day of the Centre Line school, an event made worthy of note by an entertainment to be given in the afternoon. Miss Rachel Wright, the teacher, being an adept at preparing entertainments, we predict a pleasant time for all who attend.

Mr. Daniel Rhoads, assisted by Mr. Sinnickson Smith, is this week taking an invoice of stock preparatory to a trip to Philadelphia for the purpose of purchasing new goods for the Summer trade.

I offer a suggestion to those who purchase baking powder—be sure you are not given mustard. I advise you not to try to solve this. WEB.

—At a special meeting of Bellefonte Encampment, No. 72, I. O. O. F., held on Monday evening, the 31st ult., the following officers (previously elected) were by D. D. G. Patriarch, R. A. Magee, assisted by Past Patriarchs H. B. Pontius and B. Galbraith, duly installed for the coming year, viz: Chief Patriarch, H. H. Benner; Senior Warden, W. H. Musser; Junior Warden, A. Sternberg; Scribe, W. H. Miller; Treasurer, Isaac Miller. The officers filling positions by appointment were duly appointed by the C. P., and installed into office. This encampment has been recently reorganized, and has every prospect of again becoming a prosperous branch of the I. O. O. F., being the higher branch of Odd Fellowship. The members of the Subordinate Lodge, in order to thoroughly understand the full purport of Odd Fellowship, should not hesitate to attach themselves to the encampment.—Democrat.

—The young man in New York who is amusing himself and other people by eating sixty eggs a day arouses our indignation. Imagine what a famine there would be in hen fruit if the 50,000,000 people in this country were all such egg consumers. We beg to inform that young man that we are fond of eggs, and he will greatly oblige us if he will include a larger proportion of bread and meat in his meals, leaving a few of the eggs for our consumption.

—Mr. Henry Rothrock died a few days ago at his home in Ray county, Missouri. He was a printer and learned his trade in Bellefonte many years ago. Numerous relatives reside in this vicinity, among whom are six brothers, viz: John, William, Test, Alexander, Jacob and Wilson L. Rothrock, and two sisters—Mrs. Margaret Weaver, wife of Daniel Weaver, deceased, and Mary A. Weaver, wife of George B. Weaver, of Bellefonte.

—The Bellefonte, Nittany and Lemont Railroad Company paid out in laborers' wages during the month of January $2300, in February $1600, and last week they paid $1482 on the March account.

THE WONDER

Is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it, the reason would appear as clear as the noon-day sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited; troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve; and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. And I attribute this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla. She has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,

A. L. HINCKLEY,
No. 264 Broadway, Lowell, Mass.

SPICES.—The best cook in the land cannot cook successfully without pure, fresh spices. These we have in every variety. Well-seasoned food adds to long life and happiness.

SUGARS AND SYRUPS.—In Sugars and Syrups we have all the best brands in the market. Much of the sugar now sold is adulterated, and in an article of this kind there is great waste. We buy from reliable dealers, and handle only the genuine goods.

TEAS AND COFFEES.—No breakfast can be thoroughly enjoyed without a good cup of coffee or tea. A drink of this kind is stimulating and goes right to the spot. Our Coffees and Teas are fresh and strictly pure. The fragrant odor which escapes from the steaming pot as it comes in from the kitchen will convince you of this. We sell more coffee than any other two houses in the county. Why? Because we sell the best and the people know it.

NUTS, CONFECTIONERY, ETC.—In Nuts and Confectionery we have everything that is nice, and just what will please the young folks, and old folks as well. Our candies are all pure and wholesome; We do not handle the highly-colored, poisonous mixtures that ruin and decay the teeth. We have new Florida oranges (this fall's crop), fine Figs and Prunes, and a choice line of Canned Fruits and Preserves. Bear this in mind when preparing to Celebrate the merry holidays.

We make special mention of the above lines of goods because they are all leading articles at this season of the year. In other lines our stock is equally fresh and complete.

We buy the Best Goods and sell at the Lowest Figures.

Call in and inspect our No. 1 goods. Then you will know where to purchase when your cupboard needs replenishing.

Ex-Governor Tilden Again Interviewed.

BALTIMORE, April 1.—The Sun tomorrow will publish an interview of ex Governor Tilden, with one of its most trusted correspondents, in which the latter says: "Obeying the wish of ex-Governor Tilden I draw a veil of silence over much that he said. He said enough to convince me that he is sincere in his announced disinclination to stand for the presidency; that he prefers the luxury and elegance of his own splendid home and the charms of the small but select circle of congenial friends which centre around him, to the white house bauble. But this is no reason why, when the democratic convention meets, it should not nominate Mr. Tilden if its members think he is the most available man. A responsibility would then be fixed upon him which, however much he may imagine to the contrary, it is impossible for him to realize now.

As to the Tilden's ? physical condition, while looking at him to-day I was forcibly struck with a remark made more than once to me by the late Montgomery Blair. The stories of Mr. Tilden's delicate health were as numerous in 1880 as they are now. Blair always commented on them with visible impatience, concluding with the remark, 'why Tilden will live longer than I shall.' Tilden is subject to the lot of all mortality. He certainly is not a robust man, but no one can say that he may not be just as well in 1888 as he is now. Stacks of letters from all parts of the United States are constantly pouring in on Tilden. They are mainly devoted to the all absorbing subject of the presidency, and written with the idea of extracting from him more elaborate expressions than he has yet uttered. The writers are not likely to be gratified."

On Guard at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, April 1.—NOON.—This morning has been free from any incident indicating any change in the situation. The proposed relief of the militia by the civil force can not be put into operation speedily, if at all, as the selection of suitable men and their equipment must take time. The militia still keep the streets barricaded as strongly as ever, not even allowing the Mt. Auburn line of street cars, whose track runs a distance of two squares within the line, to pass through. As to the state of public feeling, it cannot be said that the original impulse that actuated the men taking part in the demonstration of Saturday night has been removed or lessened by the presence of the military; on the contrary, the events of Friday and Saturday nights have given rise to a new feeling—that of indignation against the militia. Only the hopelessness of a conflict with this powerfully armed force prevents an attack upon it.

Captain Feolger, who commanded the detachment of militia which fired the first shots, has published a card denying the statement that he ordered his men to fire. He says: "Sheriff Hawkins gave the order in the words 'Give it to 'em boys! Fire!' and in the excitement I could not stop them, so I cried 'Boys, fire high!' My men would never have fired if it had not been that four of them were wounded with stones and shots from the crowd, and they shot on the sheriff's order. I have been in the war. I would rather face an enemy than such a crowd of citizens with whom I have a fellow feeling, and I would not rashly give an order such as it has been said I gave.

Strengthening the Navy.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The Senate Committee on Appropriations has completed the Naval Appropriation bill. The committee has added $6,451,980 to the bill as it came from the House, making the amount $20,786,676. The principal amendments are in the section relating to the increase of the navy. The committee provides that of $1,620,000 which the House bill provides for completing the Chicago, Boston, and Atlanta, 20 per centum shall be made available immediately. The sum of $2,500,000 is appropriated for the construction of one cruiser of $4,500 tons, one cruiser of 3,000 tons, one despatch vessel of 1,500 tons, two heavily armed gunboats of 1,500 tons each, one light gunboat of 750 tons, one gunboat not to exceed 900 tons, one steel ram, and two harbor torpedo boats. The bill provides that the Secretary of the Navy shall invite proposals for building these vessels from all American shipbuilders.

It appropriates $2,000,000 to continue work upon the double turreted monitors.

Glass Factory at Atco.

ATCO, N. J., March 31.—An extensive factory for the manufacture of window glass has been erected here. The factory is partly the outgrowth of the shortage of glass during the Western troubles. On Thursday next the the first glass will be made.

Why Minister Sargent Declined.

BERLIN, March 31.—Minister Sargent has informed an interviewer that he refused the St. Petersburg mission because he feared the climate of the Russian capital and also because there were urgent reasons for his wishing to return to America.

Old Boreas in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, April 2.—The wind storm which swept over the city this morning at half-past 9 o'clock did a great deal of damage in Pittsburg and elsewhere. The sky grew intensely dark very suddenly, and people who had seen "northers" in Texas and tornadoes in the west said that it looked as though we would have a "storm." In the city proper it did not blow very long, but for a few moments the force of the gale was severe, and then it rained very hard.

Several houses on Twenty-eighth street were demolished. On Wylie avenue the roof of the residence of William Rosenberg was blown off and a brick partition was overthrown burying Mrs. Rosenberg, Fanny S. Koulkin and a baby, and injuring them so severely that it is doubtful whether they will recover.

At Homestead the wind was very severe, breaking windows, felling trees and small outbuildings in all parts of the town. A house in course of erection on Sixth avenue, near Ann street, was almost totally demolished. Six men were in it at the time and all were injured by falling timber. Robert Irwin, of this city, was the worst hurt, but his injuries are not fatal. A portion of the house fell on to a small carpenter shop adjoining and crushed it. A number of men who were in it had a narrow escape from injury. A frame house on the hill above the town, owned by a man named Randolph, was displaced from its foundations and badly wrenched. The occupants escaped injury. A number of persons were painfully hurt by flying debris.

About half-past 9 o'clock the new wire mill of Oliver & Roberts, at the foot of Ninth street, South Side, was blown down. The building was about ready for roofing, and was almost entirely of iron construction and at the time of the accident about one hundred men were at work digging out space for placing in the engines and laying the brick work for them. The storm came up suddenly, and before the men realized any danger they saw the iron girding coming down upon them. Some of them started to run, but one of them, William Lacy, a bricklayer, was caught and crushed down by the iron pillar. When taken up blood was flowing from his mouth from internal injuries. He was removed to his boarding place, corner of Seventh and Carson streets, and Dr. Evan's summoned, who pronounced him seriously hurt. James Donaven was carrying a hod full of brick at the time of the accident and narrowly escaped death from a falling girder. He dodged back far enough to free himself, but the hod was knocked off his shoulder and smashed to pieces.

The fate of a battle is the result of a moment,—of a thought, the hostile forces advance with various combinations, they attack each other and fight for a certain time; the critical moment arrives, a mental flash decides, and the least reserve accomplishes the object.

Mrs. Ottendorfer's Death.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Mrs. Anna Ottendorfer, the wife of the editor of the New York Staats Zeitung, died this evening shortly before 6 o'clock, after a severe illness of several months' duration. Mrs. Ottendorfer's maiden name was Anna Sartoris. She was born in Wurzburg, Bavaria, on February 11, 1815, and came to New York in 1836 as the wife of Jacob Uhl, who started a printing office in Frankfort Street, and in 1845 bought the Staats Zeitung, than a small weekly, and soon turned it into a daily. His wife was his able, conscientious, hard-working coadjutor in his newspaper enterprise. Mr. Uhl died in April, 1852, when his widow took control of the paper, and in 1859 she married Mr. Oswald Ottendorfer. For many years Mrs. Ottendorfer took an active part in the business management of the paper, and had the satisfaction to see it develop into one of the leading journals of the United States.

Events in Egypt.

LONDON, March 31.—It is reported that on the 16th inst. General Gordon made a sortie from Khartoum with 3,000 men, two guns and a squadron of Basei Bazouk cavalry, accompanied by three steamers on the river. The rebels were encountered near Halfyeh. Sixty of the enemy's cavalry charged the Bashi Bazouks and put them to flight, causing a panic among the infantry, who also fled in great disorder. General Gordon returned to Khartoum. Notwithstanding this check, he declares that Khartoum is quite safe.

An Expedition against Cuba.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 31.—News has been received in this city of a filibustering expedition against the Cuban Government, organized in Key West, and it is said that large numbers of men and arms are ready at that place to embark for the island. The United States revenue cutter Boutwell, stationed in this city, Hugh MacCullough, at Charleston, and one other have been ordered to Key West and are already en route.

The Ground Covered with Hail.

PETROLIA, Pa., April 2.—The worst hail storm since 1852 has just passed over this town. It was attended with a fierce gale and terrifying thunder and lightning. Hail lies in the streets fully three quarters of an inch deep and the ground is white as snow. The storm did great damage to fruit trees and grain.

The War in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, March 31.—NOON.—A meeting of one hundred and fifty leading citizens occurred at the council chamber at 9.30 a. m., with Mayor Stephens in the chair. A resolution was passed that the citizens extend thanks to Governor Hoadly and the Ohio National Guard for the aid rendered in suppressing the riot and upholding the law.

The rioters made their last rally a few minutes after midnight. They had at that time become much reduced in number, and while still threatening were much less aggressive. They had stolen about forty muskets from the Turners' armory. They fired on the militia at Court and Walnut streets. Several volleys were fired by the militia which were replied to with some spirit by the rioters. At last a volley from the Gatling gun laid low two of their number and entirely cooled their enthusiasm. A few random shots were fired after that, but from then till morning comparative quite reigned. At military headquarters it is believed that there will be no renewal of hostilities by the mob and that the riot is substantially at an end.

CINCINNATI, March 31.—Evening.—At the jail and city buildings everything is in the most complete state of defense. Across all the streets and alleys approaching the former scene of strife, the barricades have been strengthened and reinforced. The commanding officers are all sanguine in their expressions as to no further fear of an outbreak, and the present appearance of things seems to justify this view. The mob spirit seems entirely quelled, and those formerly imbued with it appear to stand in such wholesome fear of the reckless shooting of the soldiers as to have had an entire sufficiency of rushing into the jaws of death. The Thirteenth and Fourteenth regiments seem to be considered the most reliable, and are still on their duty guarding barricades, the main point of all the previous attacks.

The safe of the probate court, in which wills were kept, is in an excellent condition. The wounded, with a few exceptions, are doing well. Henry Neimer, Philip Roabe and Thomas Green, colored, died to-day.

The total number of known killed is 48. It is thought that a number taken to their homes and not reported, have died from wounds. The total number of known wounded is 126.

Gen. Grant Makes a Call.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Gen. Grant visited the house of representatives this afternoon. His presence was announced by Mr. Randall, of Pennsylvania, upon whose motion a recess of fifteen minutes was taken to give the members an opportunity of shaking the distinguished visitor by the hand. Speaker Carlisle then escorted the ex-president to a space in front of the clerk's desk, where, leaning on one of his crutches, he received the respects of members, the speaker standing by his side and introducing to him representatives with whom he had not been previously acquainted.

Hop Bitters.

Thousands Hastened to Their Graves.

Relying on testimonials written in vivid, glowing language of some miraculous cures made by some largely puffed up doctor or patent medicine has hastened thousands to their graves; believing in their almost insane faith that the same miracle will be performed on them, and that these testimonials make the cures, while the so called medicine is all the time hastening them to their graves. We have avoided publishing testimonials, as they do not make the cures, although we have

THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS

of them, of the most wonderful cures, voluntarily sent us. It is our medicine, Hop Bitters, that makes the cures. It has never failed and never can. We will give references to any one for any disease similar to their own if desired, or will refer to any neighbor, as there is not a neighborhood in the known world but can show its cures by Hop Bitters.

A LOSING JOKE.

A prominent physician of Pittsburgh said to a lady patient who was complaining of her continued ill health, and of his inability to cure her, jokingly said: "Try Hop Bitters." The lady took it in earnest and used the Bitters, from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for his joke, but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good patient.

FEES OF DOCTORS.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

A LADY'S WISH.

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was as clear and soft as yours," said a lady to her friend. "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady. "By using Hop Bitters that makes pure, rich blood and blooming health. It did it for me, as you observe."

GIVEN UP BY THE DOCTORS.

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters, and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die from kidney and liver trouble.

$66 a week at home. $5.00 outfit free. Pay absolutely sure. No risk. Capital not required. Reader, if you want business at which persons of either sex, young or old, can make great pay all the time they work, with absolute certainty, write for particulars to H. ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

—The trout fishing season began on April 1.

—Attend the church prayer meetings this evening.

—The county jail now contains only eleven inmates.

—A brilliant hop is on the tapis to occur at Garman's hotel on Tuesday evening, April 15.

—The family of Mr. J. E. McCartney are about to depart to join that gentlemen in West Virginia.

—Many intense religionists in Bellefonte who might attend Wednesday evening prayer meeting, don't do so.

—Dr. E. E. Higbee, State superintendent of public instruction has removed his residence from Lancaster to Lebanon.

—Miles Walker, commissioner's clerk, is said to have High Sheriff aspirations and would fit in that position admirably.

—The W. C. T. U. wish to thank their friends for their generous patronage and liberal donations towards their Apron Fair.

—Patrons of J. C. and W. R. Brachbill's furniture store can examine goods as well at night as during the day as the warerooms are lighted by electricity.

—Mrs. Whiteman is preparing to move her millinery store into the room owned by Mr. Sands on High street and until recently occupied by Mr. Deschner.

—The present coolness of the atmosphere is unaccountable. We would extend to "ethereal mildness" a warm welcome if she would only give us a chance.

—Rev. Geo. D. Penepacker, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church occupied the pulpit Sunday preaching practical sermons to crowded houses.—Altoona Tribune.

—Those who prosper most in changeable weather ought to thrive amazingly just now. The first of April brought snow in the morning and a thunder storm at night. April 2 was cool and ended with a lively snow storm.

—The poor expenses of the borough will probably not be published monthly hereafter in consequence of the fact that the work is divided between both of the gentlemen holding that office and a partial statement would not be satisfactory.

—The fishing season has commenced in earnest and the banks of Spring creek are bordered with the picturesque figures of anglers armed with long rods. Al. Dale captured three or four large trout on the 1st of April and many others doubtless were even more successful.

—We have received a communication entitled "A Lion at Large." But as the communication evidently contains a hidden meaning and has no signature affixed we cannot publish it. Please remember that we must have the real name of the writer, not for publication, but to convince us that he is willing to pledge his word to the truth of what he writes.

—James and Albert Miller (colored) are achieving reputations as fox hunters. One day recehtly they captured fifteen red foxes in two separate holes in the vicinity of Scotia and afterwards shot one of the old foxes outside. This is considered a pretty good day's work for two lads of color and when they make a demand for $16 Commissioner Griest will probably open his eyes.

—The thunder and lightning storm on Tuesday night, the 1st, was quite severe. The thunder rumbled like cannons overhead and the electricity illuminated every object and even flashed with perceptible brilliancy into a lighted room. A storm of that kind at this season of the year is said to be an indication of warm weather, which indication, we hope, will be fulfilled.

—Three months ago a chicken owned by Mr. Chas. Brown, of this place, strayed away from the flock and was supposed to have perished with cold. A few days ago it was found fastened securely in a stone wall where it had doubtless remained during all that interval with nothing to eat. It is said to have grown crooked because of the peculiar position it which it was fastened. But it was still alive and could eat and move about like any other well regulated chicken.

—In regard to the erection of the new Bald Eagle passenger depot in this place we understand that the company are still negotiating for the location of the freight depot on High street. They have made offers to L. L. Brown and P. G. Meek for the purchase of their properties in that vicinity. Whether or not these offers are sufficiently attractive to induce the gentlemen to accept we do not know. We understand, however, that the amount offered Mr. Meek is $10,000

A Few April Flittings.

The changes of residence that took place April 1st, were not as numerous as usual. One heretofore noted is the removal of Mr. Amos Mullen to the residence vacated by Dr. Swartz on Bishop street.

John I. Rankin, Esq., is removing from his Spring street residence to into the Yearick property on Penn street and the house he vacates will be occupied by Miss McCalmont.

Mr. Al. Landis has changed his residence from Curtin street into the dwelling house next that of Isaac Haupt.

Mr. D. A. Kennedy is removing from Mr. James Mitchell's house on Spring street to the residence of Mrs. Parsons on Logan street. We understand that Mr. Isaac Lose and family will occupy Mr. Mitchell's house. Mr. John Colwell will occupy another house owned by Mr. Mitchell located near the Bellefonte Academy.

Mr. James Chambers is moving from Thomas street to a house on the extreme northern end of Allegheny street.

Mr. William Larimer bids farewell to Bishop street and locates on Curtin.

Mr. Thomas Benner moves from West Lamb street to a house on Bunker Hill and Mr. George Gross, who also lives on West Lamb street, journeys in the same direction.

Mrs. Hoover and daughter will occupy the residence next that of Mr. A. J. Cruse on Howard street, while Mr. S. A. Stover departs from Howard street to the dwelling over his marble establishment on High street and Mr. J. D. Mateer will soon "begin housekeeping" in Mr. Stover's former residence.

Mr. John Noll, a stone mason and contractor from Pleasant Gap, has become a resident of Bellefonte by locating in the Sturdevant house on Curtin street.

Captain Bayard has transferred his headquarters from the sacred precincts at the rear of the Republican office to the VanTries residence on Spring street, while Mr. Hunter Nicely departs from Quaker Hill to another religious locality and will hereafter call the residence formerly known as the M. E. church on Jail Hill by the sweet name of "home."

Among the out-of-town removals is that of Mr. Hamilton of Pleasant Gap, who goes to what is known as the Green farm below Milesburg.

Mr. Beezer's meat market will increase its accommodations by moving into Mr. Brachbill's building, next door, on High street, while Mr. Deschner will hereafter sell guns, fishing tackle, etc., in his new gingerbread palace en Water street.

Mr. Stephen Pie, who heretofore resided on Bunker hill, will locate in a house near the glass works.

Mr. Clark, it is stated, will move into Mr. Larimer's former residence on Bishop street.

Mr. Cal. Brachbill will dream about big sales of furniture while at home in Mr. John Bartruff's new house on Bishop street, while Mr. C. P. Hilder, the painter, has located in part of the residence occupied by Mr. Bartruff's family on the same thoroughfare.

Great Excitement in Unionville.

FLEMING P O. April 1, 1884.

On usually quite and peaceful town has of late been thrown into a high fever of excitement over the fact that one of its citizens has filed an application for license to sell liquor—to deal out death and destruction to his fellow-creature in this the banner temperance town of the State. As soon as it became known that the application was filed our people became aroused and bestirred themselves in a way that reminded one of a hive of bees when suddenly disturbed, and remonstrances were at once put into the hands of persons to solicit signatures which are being signed by all of the best citizens of the town. It is a fight between the temperance and anti-temperance elements, the former of which largely predominates in the borough. In one case the husband signed the petition for license and the wife the remonstrance. In another the husband signed the petition for license while his wife and daughter signed the remonstrance. Many other similar instances might be mentioned. It is a case in which the father is arrayed against the son, the son against the father—husband against wife, brother against brother, etc. Much bad feeling already prevails between the two contending parties, but the temperance element have thrown out advance guards and are working like beavers to prevent being taken by surprise, and when the time comes for the judges to say whether or not we shall have license they will find the temperance men well armed and equipped for the final struggle. The truth is the people do not want a licensed hotel in this place, neither do we need one. Some plead that it will bring more people to our town; that many drive past because there is no licensed hotel, no rum shop here. Well, to all such we would say—drive on! If you cannot stop in or patronize our town without first getting outside of a lot of poisonous "fire water" we bid you pass on and God speed.

In our honorable judges lies our hope of success. We would think it very strange indeed if they should impose on our community such a damnable nuisance as a dram shop. We have had a trial of it once and we want no more. We abide our time with anxiety for the cause. In the mean time, we must work, for verily "De serpent am a crawling" and if we are not on our guard he will yet rear his poisonous head in our midst and deal out death and destruction all around, and many a poor fellow will be made to "bite the dust' through his venomous sting. But I'm —Quite an intellectual treat awaited the attendants at the meeting of the Boys' Branch, Y. M. C. A., on the evening of March 31. Mr. George Bible, the famous elocutionist, was present and read three appropriate selections for them—two of a humorous character and one dramatic. Mr. Bible has improved wonderfully since he last appeared before a Centre county audience and is now one of the most finished readers on the stage, though, because of the very youthful character of his audience last evening, he did not give any selections of a very high order of literary excellence. The first was one of Peck's Bad Boy series entitled "His Pa Goes Skating," which proved to be exceedingly mirth provoking to the boys. The second selection was one which involves the most intense dramatic action. It is entitled "Mad" and is written by Clarkston. Mr. Bible omitted part of it because of the necessity of making the exercises brief, but succeeded in securing the attention even of the boys in some of the most thrilling passages. The concluding performance was a recital of "The Little Hatchet."

DOMINO.

—The cruelest April fool that was perpetrated in Bellefonte April 1 was one of which Mr. Hard Harris was the victim. The previous evening he received a postal card which was about as follows:

"DEAR HARD: Am on my way to Altoona. Will remain over night in Lock Haven and will pass through Bellefonte on the 5.45 a. m. train on Tuesday. Would be pleased to meet you at the depot. Can't stop. Yours lovingly. ——."

Of course Hard made arrangements with his mother to be called early next morning and almost before the first blush of morn was visible in the east he was arrayed in his most striking attire and sauntering leisurely toward the depot. When the train arrived he gazed longingly at the windows. Not seeing the anticipated vision he raced wildly through the cars, and when he emerged on the platform again he heard a voice exclaim: "This is the first of April." Imagine his feelings at that particular moment if you can. Sorry you didn't see your best girl, Hard; it was a Capp ital joke.

Railroad News.

We are informed that there are between 400 and 500 men at work on the Bellefonte and Beech Creek railroad (extending along the Bald Eagle) between this place and Howard. With this large number of workmen the road will soon be completed. On the Bellefonte, Nittany and Lemont Railroad work is also progressing satisfactorily. Vandyke & Wilson are pushing their contract on the Spring Mills and Lemont R. R. forward with encouraging rapidity, and work is also in progress on the branch extending in the direction of Hublersburg. In brief, this county is alive with railroad enterprise and before fall is here the iron horse, coming over several lines of railroad extending in different directions, will infuse new life and activity in all the affairs of our borough.

—Quite a disastrous fire occurred on Sunday, March 30, a mile north of Clintondale. Dr. Smith's residence, store and barn were completely destroyed. The burned buildings composed what was formerly known as the Custard stand and were then used for hotel purposes. They were quite valuable and the loss is heavy. We also learn that about $300 in cash was burned. Quite fortunately, the barn that was burned contained but little property, the grain and other valuable farm products being stored in another barn located at a greater distance and which was not burned. The loss will reach into thousands of dollars which was partially covered by insurance.

—Mr. Curtin now serves milk to the former customers of Mr. Garbrick.

A Letter from Dakota.

The following interesting letter from Mr. Israel Freeze, a former resident of Coleville, near Bellefonte, is addressed to our fellow-townsman, Mr. Isaac Haupt:

STEELE, Kidder Co., Dakota,
March 15, 1884.

DEAR SIR: After a long delay I take pleasure in writing you a few lines to let you know some of my experience in this western country.

I have had rather a rough time of it so far, but have better prospects ahead.

I located a claim thirty miles south of here in Logan county, and intend to move on it in April; and I must say it is a fine country—very rich soil and plenty of good water—and is destined to be the centre of four different lines of railroad, two of which are almost sure to be built this summer. There is a city laid out about a mile from my claim, amid three beautiful lakes, one of which extends to within a half mile of my house. It will requre a hard struggle for me to get properly started this Spring, but I think I can manage to get a crop out and then I'll be safe.

It is surprising how fast this country is filling up. A year ago there was not a claim taken in Logan Co., now there are more than two hundred; and there are two colonies, one from Michigan and one from Illinois, coming in April intending to settle in Logan and Emmons counties. But there is abundance of room for more. Well, I suppose you would like to know something about the game. There are unlimited numbers of deer and antelope yet in Logan and Emmons counties, and abundance of geese, ducks, curlew, brant and swans in the lakes, also chickens, grouse and jack rabbits on the prairies. The railroad lands are selling at $5 per acre near the new city of Gage, and I think a man could not make a better investment that to buy at that price. But if you want a good investment give me a flock of sheep. I would take a flock of sheep on the shares (any number from a hundred to two thousand) for three years, and give half of the wool each year and divide the flock generally at the end of three years.

* * * * * *

Yours truly,
ISRAEL FREEZE.

To I. C. Haupt, Bellefonte, Pa.

—Boalsburg, this county, is about to receive some accessions to her population as is apparent by the following from the Altoona Tribune of Wednesday morning: "Mr. John Leach who has been employed as a car inspector in the lower yard, will on Friday remove with his family to Boalsburg, Centre county, with the intention of making that place their permanent residence. Mr. and Mrs. Leach are excellent people, and are highly esteemed by their many acquaintances. As a mark of respect and outward expression of the regard felt for her, the friends of Mrs. Leach tendered her a surprise party at her residence, on Eighth street above Howard avenue, last evening. The affair was a great success socially, and all who were so fortunate as to have been present will long remember it."

—W. T. Harvey, Esq., of Lock Haven, is prominently mentioned for one of the six delegates at large to be elected to the Chicago convention, at least one of whom should come from the central part of the State. As no one in Bellefonte seems to particularly desire to be one of those delegates we cheerfully unite with the very strongly expressed opinion that pushes forward the claims of Mr. Harvey. He is a true Republican, and while his personal preferences are for Blaine he is sufficiently conservative in character and loyal to party to support whoever may be considered the most available presidential candidate.

—The work on the connection through Bald Eagle Valley between the Buffalo Run railroad and the Beech Creek railroad, is progressing with remarkable rapidity. Hundreds of men are being put to work at all points along the line and the determination is to complete the road within a very short time. With the promise that the people have that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will not be permitted to exert any control over the new road, the advantage that will accrue to Bellefonte will be incalculable.

—A lady and gentleman who drove out the Roopsburg road on Sunday evening, March 30, were quite unfortunate. The lady lost a valuable gold watch which she did not miss until she had almost reached home. The gentleman gallantly went back over the road with a "wide awake" lantern and, we believe, succeeded in recovering it. Persons living in that direction did not understand the importance of that lonely search through the dark night, but this item will probably throw some light on it.

The Clearfield Mining Troubles.

Mr. D. K. Ramey, who came from Clearfield county last evening, says the Altoona Tribune of last Wednesday, informs us that the coal miners in that region will most likely accept the proposed reduction. He was informed by Mr. John Whitehead, who owns five mines in the county and employs about eight hundred men, that he effected an amicable arrangement with his men, and that all will go to work this morning at the reduced rates. There is no probability of any of them striking. The men employed in the Morrisdale mines in the same county were at work yesterday as usual, an indication that they, too, have accepted the reduction. Some of the miners will accept the reduction and afterwards try to have 2,000 pounds net make the ton, and have store orders abolished. There may be trouble on this point yet.

Since the above was written an Osceola telegram was received at this office, and is printed in another column, stating that the miners have struck. The two statements do not agree and we will have to wait for further information on the subject.

First of April Frolics.

The spirit of mischief prevailed to a greater extent on the 1st day of April than is ordinarily the case even at that time. A box, attached firmly to the pavement, occupied a position in front of Frank Blair's jewelry store. Every expressman that came along was ordered to carry it to the depot. When the first one grasped the box, expecting to lift it easily in his wagon, and discovered that he could not move it, he grasped the situation at once and with an "I'm sold" sort of an expression, leaped into his wagon and went on. The second was a repetition of the first. But the third man pulled, tugged and jerked at the obstinate box and then called a man to his assistance. Together they failed to move the box and at last gave up in disgust.

At the Brockerhoff House tempting "snow fritters" were served among the other delicacies for dinner. They appeared so delicious that almost everybody called for them. But a single taste seemed to be sufficient to appease the appetite. It was indeed a beautiful deception. The inside of these fritters consisted of cotton, which is not considered a favorite article of food in Pennsylvania.

—Philipsburg has a new weekly paper—the Ledger. It is edited and published by Messrs. C. B. Martin and H. C. Williams. Like its cotemporary, the Journal, it is independent in politics, and claims to be unsettled in religion. Philipsburg is fast developing into a lively town and doubtless affords sufficient field for two newspapers. The first number of this new candidate for public favor was issued on Wednesday and we shall be happy to place it on our exchange list.

The best evidence in the world of the purity and excellence of Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is found in the fact that the fame of this tobacco increases from year to year. This could not be the case if it were merely "gotten up to sell," or had any dubious or dangerous ingredients in it. Among millions of users of all nationalities, surely some one would find out if it were impure, injurious or unpalatable. For 18 years this tobacco has been acknowledged to be the best in the world, and every year the Bull Durham brand grows more popular, the demand for it wider, and smokers more enthusiastic over its delicious natural flavor. —Lawns and hillsides are assuming quite a green appearance.

—The population of Coburn, this county, numbers exactly 104.

—Mr. John Bartruff spent this morning working out doors on his new house.

—Tell us, please; when may we listen to the dulcet notes of the colored band.

—Mr. Wm. Noll, of Madisonburg, is having stone hauled for the foundation of a new house.

—A telephone message from Miles' store in Milesburg says that business is booming in that vicinity.

—Oysters seem to be remarkably scarce just now, and it is almost impossible to obtain them in Bellefonte.

—Several of our young gentlemen are reminding us of uncertain, tardy spring by appearing in light trousers.

—The small frame building recently occupied by Beezer's meat market, on High street, was moved Saturday morning.

—The laying of the new pipes on Water street has been completed. Mr. Shaughensey bossed the job and he's lightning.

—Dr. C. P. W. Fisher, of Boalsburg, continues to improve in health and writes hopefully of the prospect of entire recovery.

—As you pass along the street did you ever count the number of houses and business places illuminated with electric light? Verily, they are legion.

—The awning in front of Brockerhoff's flour and feed store on Bishop street disappeared on Thursday. Perhaps a new one will soon take its place.

—Mr. B. O. Deininger has withdrawn from the editorial management of the Millheim Journal, leaving Mr. R. A. Bpmiller its sole editor and proprietor.

—We learn that a petition from the pupils attending Bellefonte Academy, also signed by the parents, asking for vacation this week at that institution, has been granted.

—The service in the Y. M. C. A. hall on Sunday afternoon was conducted by J. W. Gephart, Esq., and was on a par with former services held in the room in attendance and interest.

—A pamphlet has been issued by J. W. Moore, which gives many useful hints to persons getting pictures taken, as it tells us what to do and what not to do. Call and get one free of charge at his new gallery over Harris' drug store.

—The eminent basso, Karl Formas, tells American parents that they make a grave mistake when they send their children to Italy to study music when they can attain much better results at home. He says musical science is at its lowest level in Italy, and the greatest singers are not Italians.

—About a mile and a half from town near the property of Mr. Mordica Waddle the channel of Logan Branch Creek is being changed from its usual course for the purpose of saving the expense of a railroad bridge to span the stream. The bed of the creek can be filled up at less cost than a suitable bridge can be built and the expense of keeping it in repair will not be so great.

—John Sweetwood, of Potter township, had two ribs broken and received other injuries on Saturday, March 29, caused by the kick of a horse. Mr. S. was driving across the railroad track at Spring Mills when his horse was knocked down by a moving freight car. The animal kicked viciously just before expiring, with the result described. Mr. Sweetwood is quite an aged gentleman.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY.

Gen. James A. Beaver's Political Attitude—Why he will not Accept the Nomination for Congressman-at-Large—His Presidential Preferences, Etc.

A reporter of the NEWS called upon General Beaver at his law office in this place last Friday afternoon. He was busy, as he always is, but he cheerfully granted an interview of about fifteen minutes.

The reporter gently introduced the conversation by remarking: "General, it is said that you have retired from politics. Many Republicans are anxious to know if you will take no part in the coming campaign?"

"I stated to a reporter in Pittsburg," replied the General; "that I was out of politics at present. I did not mean, however, that I should hesitate to do my duty when the time for action comes. When the campaign opens you will find me at the front."

"Another question, General, in which your admirers are interested is why you refuse the nomination of Congressman-at-Large?"

"The reason is easily given," said the General, "I refuse that nomination or would refuse it because I do not think any who were on the ticket in 1882 ought to be candidates now, unless it be Brosius. I do not know that he wants it, but I believe he would accept if nominated. I would rather not be candidate because I do not want anything done that will revive old issues. We want harmony: and I think more of harmony in the party than I do of any favors I may receive. I am of opinion that Gen. E. S. Osburn, of Wilkesbarre, or Gen. Wm. Lilly, of Mauch Chunk, would be good men to place on the ticket, but I have no special preferences. I shall not be in the convention; therefore, have not thought much about the matter, as it will not be my duty to act. My preferences, one way or the other, ought not to influence others."

"Gen. Beaver, do you think the six delegates at large will be in Blaine's interest or that of some other man?" the reporter asked.

"I believe," returned the General; "that the unmistakable sentiment of the people of this State is for Blaine and I believe in the unit rule to the extent that when the will of the majority of the people is expressed the minority ought to acquiesce and all support the sentiment thus declared. As this State is for Blaine, I think the delegates at large and all others ought to declare as a unit for him."

"Please tell me, General, if you believe the State Convention will endorse Arthur's administration?"

"I don't know," said the General promptly; "Arthur has given us an excellent, conservative administration and it seems to me ought to be endorsed."

"General, who is your preference for President?"

"Every man named is competent and should command the vote of the entire party. But it is a question of availability—that is, as to who can best succeed. As I have said, I think this State ought to go as a unit for Blaine. If Blaine should not be nominated, Edmunds, Logan, Authur, Sherman or Lincoln could and would unite the party in my judgment. We might go further and fare worse than by nominating General Hawley, of Connecticut. I will not be charged with the duty of helping to make the nomination, and hence am trying to hold myself in check so that I may not be disappointed when the nomination is made."

"One more question, General. Who is your choice for Vice President?"

"Lincoln seems to be the universal favorite and he will suit me, for I not only venerate the name but admire the man. If Blaine and he should be nominated it would reverse 1860. Then it was Illinois and Maine, and now it would be Maine and Illinois."

Quite satisfied with the result of our interview, we departed.

—That remarkable musical organization, the Bellefonte Orchestra, is no more, the members having recently conceived the preposterous idea of disbanding, which idea was ruthlessly carried into execution. What evil genius controlled them when they performed such a reprehensible act we cannot conceive. As an organization it was the idol of a music loving populace; its praises were on every lip; with such admiration it should now be in the very hey-day of existence. But, like the erratic creatures we are, throwing away the triumphs of life when they become most successful, the members performed the fatal act which ended the existence of this grand musical organization and now it can be spoken of only in history. Its melody will be heard no more. Requiescat in pace.

—That new sign in front of Garman's store is a beauty.

Burglary and Robbery in Boalsburg.

Desperate criminals are doubtless at large in this county and it behooves all people to exert great care. On Saturday we recorded the attempted burglary of the Bellefonte post office and on Monday we learned that a successful burglary and also a robbery occurred in Boalsburg on Sunday night. The store of Mr. Jerry Dinges in that place was entered during the night through a rear window and the safe blown open. The exact amount of money taken is not known, but it was between $150 and $200. Mr. Dinges' sons found a small amount of money in the drawers of the safe when they entered the store this morning, showing that the perpetrators of the crime were wise enough to leave the small change behind. Nothing else was taken from the store.

On the same night a valuable horse and buggy was taken from Mr. Henry Fredericks' stable in that place, doubtless by the same parties. Two men were seen in that vicinity on Saturday and Sunday are suspected. It is believed they went in the direction of Spruce Creek and detectives are on their track.

Mr. Dinges says he heard a slight noise during the night, but as he suspected nothing wrong and as one of his children was sick, he did not consider it worth while to go outside to learn the cause of the noise.

Meeting of Centre Lodge, No. 153, I. O. O. F.

At the meeting Thursday evening, the officers of Centre Lodge, No. 153, I.O.O.F., who were elected on the evening of March 27, were by D. D. G. M. Henry Beck, assisted by the following past grands—E. T. Tuten, H. Y. Stitzer, W. B. Rankin and W. I. Fleming—duly installed for the present term, which began on April 1st. The officers are as follows:

N. G., J. A. Hazel; V. G., Isaac Haupt; Perm. Sect., H. B. Pontius (re-elected); Asst. Sect., Theo. Deschner; Treasurer, H. H. Benner (re-elected).

The following appointments were made by the N. G. and V. G.:

W. B. Rankin, R. S.; John. I. Rankin, L. S.; W. I. Fleming, Warden; Isaac Miller, Con.; Uriah Stover, R. S. S; O. P. Kreamer, L. S. S.; B. Galbraith, O. S.; H. Beck, I. S.; S. H. Griffith, R. S. and E. T. Tuten L. S. to the V. G.

Past Grand H. C. Weaver is the sitting P. G. for the present term.

The following brothers were elected trustees of the Lodge for the present year: Henry Beck, C. T. Gerberich and R. M. Magee.

—Mr. Henderson, the renowned inventor of the Henderson steel process, his affable son, Mr. Henderson, Jr., Messrs. Allen, Robbins and all the others interested in the steel works in this place are pleased and have been in a condition of rollicking good humor since Saturday afternoon. A few months ago it was quite different. But that is because assured success and apparent failure have quite a different effect upon us. On Saturday afternoon the finest steel was made by them which has been produced at that establishment since the recent improvements were completed. The steel is the best that has ever been produced there and all that related to its manufacture was quite satisfactory. We are informed that the production of this superior steel in small quantities will be continued every day during this week and several distinguished gentlemen from a distance are expected here to examine into it, and satisfy themselves regarding its quality and the advantages of this process over other modes of manufacture.

—The Republican delegate elections occurred on Saturday evening, and the gentlemen selected at the caucus meetings on Saturday evening, March 29, were elected delegates to the Convention. The wards all instructed for Blaine and proportionate representation. In the South ward there was a majority for 2 commissioners and 2 auditors and in the North ward the sentiment prevailed in favor of 1 commissioner and 1 auditor. In the North ward there was one vote for Sherman and one for Logan. A. G. Curtin, Jr., was elected delegate in the West ward in place of Robert Miller, who moved out of the ward. The ward also voted for proportionate representation and for 1 commissioner and 1 auditor. We do not publish the names of delegates because they were given in the issue of March 31.

—An injunction was on Wednesday served by the Sheriff on the Bald Eagle connection of the Buffalo Run and Beech Creek railroad restraining them from passing over certain properties in the vicinity of Milesburg. Meanwhile, however, work can progress on the other parts of the route until the temporary difficulty is amicably adjusted.

Bungling Burglars.

An unsuccessful attempt was made Friday night to burglarize the postoffice in this place. The awkward person or persons who made the attempt pried open the lower part of the door leading from the outside into a small rear apartment sufficiently far to insert a stout stick, which held it in that position. Then with some other instrument they endeavored to force the door still further, but although the lock was snapped in two the pieces were in such a position as to still hold the door firm. At this juncture the would-be burglars were probably frightened off, as they stopped just on the eve of success so far as entrance to the rear apartment was concerned.

But having entered that, there would be yet another door to pass before entering the postoffice proper, as the postoffice in Bellefonte is well provided with locks, bars, etc.

It is entirely useless to attempt to rob the office as nothing of value is kept in it over night. Mr. Johnson is a careful post master and evil doers will not prosper at the expense of the government, so far as the property under his charge is concerned.

We suggested that tramps were the perpetrators and others are of opinion that we have a few specimens of "Peck's Bad Boy," who are anxious to develop into amateur burglars.

Meeting of County Chairmen.

The chairmen of the Republican county committees in the counties of this Congressional district met on Thursday in Lock Haven for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements for a district convention. D. S. Keller, Esq., chairman of the Republican county committee of Centre, had the honor of presiding, with Henry A. Parsons, Jr., editor and proprietor of the Elk county Advocate, as secretary. Every county in the district, except Mifflin, was represented as follows: Centre county, D. S. Keller, Esq; Elk county, Henry A. Parsons, Jr; Clinton, J. B. G. Kinsloe; Union, Dr. H. C. Brown; Clearfield, A. H. Woodward as substitute for Cyrus Gordon, Esq.

It was decided to hold the district convention in Lock Haven on Thursday, April 11.

The representation was based on the representation of the counties in the State convention.

The Senatorial Conferees will meet in the same city at the same time.

The Conference was pleasant and harmonious and the business was dispatched rapidly and satisfactorily.

The Literary Society.

A small audience assembled in the Y. M. C. A. Literary Society Thursday evening to hear the debate by the members of the society and elocutionary exercises by Messrs. George Boal and George Bible. The latter gentleman failed to appear.

The debate, "Resolved, That the government of the United States should pass a law prohibiting any man from voting who can not read, or write a legible hand," was discussed by Messrs. Francis Speer and Thomas Orbison on the affirmative and Messrs. Wilmer Crow and Harry Keller on the negative.

The judges of debate were Rev. Prof. D. M. Wolf, and Bond Valentine and Clem. Dale, Esqs., who decided in favor of the negative.

Mr. Boal, who was present, recited two selections—"A Letter" and "Correct Card"—in very fine style and to the great pleasure of the audience.

After these exercises the visitors were dismissed and the installation of the officers elected the week previous and published in the NEWS of Friday, March 28, was performed in satisfactory style.

A Successful Angler.

Among the fishermen who tried their skill on Tuesday, the 1st, was Mr. Michael Cooney, whose proficiency at the sport is well known. He spent most of the day in fishing and was successful in catching fifty-four fine trout, which together weighed nine pounds. He disposed of them to the Brockerhoff House and the guests at that carivansary regaled themselves on delicious brook trout at the evening meal. On the following day Mr. Cooney caught nineteen trout which he sold to Mr. John Sourbeck. They were unusually large, one of them alone weighing a pound and a quarter. At this rate Mr. Cooney might find fishing not only pleasant but profitable, as such skillful anglers usually have a monopoly of the business, while tyros may whip the stream all day without rendering it at all less populous.

—Mr. Harry W. Logan, son of Dr. W. F. Logan, of Williamsport, died at 1.15 o'clock Friday morning of typhoid fever. He has visited in Bellefonte at the home of Mr. John P. Harris and was known by many of our citizens who will regret his death while in the prime of early manhood.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. Alfred Nicholls departed Saturday morning.

Mr. Clevan Dinges, of Coburn, was in New York last week.

Prof. W. F. Meyer and Calvin A. Weaver, of Aaronsburg, are engaged in the mercantile business in Shamokin.

Rev. Milton K. Foster, the new M. E. minister, arrived in Bellefonte on Saturday and was the guest of Mr. F. W. Crider.

Mr. Jacob Kamp, the leading boot and shoe merchant of Lock Haven, spent a few hours of Tuesday evening, April 1, in Bellefonte.

Mr. Swaverly, of the Democrat office has removed from his former place of residence, to a house located opposite Reynolds' mill on Willow Bank street.

Our whilom fellow-citizen, Mr. Alfred Nicholls, now of Brooklyn, N. Y., made a visit in Bellefonte last week, looking after the business interests of the firm he represents.

Mr. J. A. Finkbinder, a practical photographer from Williamsport, Pa., has leased the gallery over Lyon & Co's store (J. W. Moore's old stand). He expects to begin business soon.

Mr. A. J. Cruse is making some extraordinary improvements to his cigar store and states that when they are completed his establishment will be the finest of the kind hereabouts.

Rev. Mr. Graham, the new M. E. minister at Boiling Springs, preached his first sermon to that congregation Sunday evening. It was especially addressed to new converts and was an excellent discourse.

Mr. R. M. McEnally, special agent for the National Life Insurance Co., of Vermont, is at present in Bellefonte. He formerly resided in Clearfield, but expects to make Bellefonte his future place of residence.

Mr. S. F. Dorman, a prominent merchant of Zion, stepped into the Pennsylvania depot Friday morning to pay a freight bill. He lost a $10 gold piece which, after careful search, he found, but we will not give him away by stating where the missing gold had disappeared to.

Mr. J. A. Finkbinder, the new photographer, was seen unpacking goods all day Saturday. He is getting his goods direct from Philadelphia and New York, consequently he will have everything in first class order. The rooms are at present being repainted and papered. When completed, Mr. Finkbinder will have the finest gallery in the borough.

Mr. H. K. Hicks has purchased the property in the rear of the Republican office owned by Mr. George Bayard. It now belongs to Mr. Hicks personally although it will be used by the firm of Hicks & Griffith. A substantial building will be erected and such other changes made as are necessary to increase present accommodations. The price paid was about $6,000.

Messrs. Adam Decker, Jr., of Nittany, and John Decker, of Hublersburg, were callers at this office on Tuesday, April 1. The first mentioned gentleman was the first subscriber for the Bellefonte Republican under its present management eleven years ago. That fact is remembered with pleasure by both the editor and Mr. D., and is often referred to by them. The Messrs. Decker are faithful Republicans and first-class gentlemen.

The residence of Mr. J. A. Aikens, in this place, is graced with the presence of several relatives. His daughter, Miss Lillie Aikens, was home from Birmingham Seminary to remain during Sunday. Mr. Aikens' sister-in-law, Mrs. Jas. A. Aikens, of Lake Side, Ohio; his mother, Mrs. Jane Aikens, of Milroy, Mifflin county, and his wife's father, Mr. Isaac Odenkirk, of Airy Dale, Huntingdon county, are all enjoying the hospitality of his pleasant home.

Personal Pencilings.

Miss Mary Musser, daughter of Michael Musser, Esq., of Aaronsburg, is visiting friends at Boiling Springs.

Mr. Moore has moved into his new gallery, and is already turning out some very fine work, made under his new Opal Light.

Mr. Thomas Collins was in Somerset, Pa., last week, to make arrangements to begin work on his contract on the South Pennsylvania Railroad.

Mr. Albert Schenck, of Liberty township, came to Bellefonte bright and early on Monday and is serving his country as a juror at special court.

Miss Minnie Garman, daughter of our townsman, Daniel Garman, Esq., returned home last Friday after a long and very pleasant visit among friends in Milton and other cities.

The visit of Mrs. Dr. Russ, of Philadelphia, in Bellefonte was very brief. She arrived on Saturday and departed Monday morning. Many acquaintances regret that her visit was so brief.

Mr. John Mullen and wife of Renovo, have moved to Centre Hall, where Mr. Mullen will engage in the mercantile business. He was formerly manager of Mr. Isaac Guggenheimer's store in Centre Hall and during the past year or two was engaged in Mr. James Murphy's establishment in Renovo. He is an experienced and careful business man and will doubtless fill a long-felt want in Centre Hall business affairs.

Judge Rockefeller, of Northumberland county, is presiding in court this week, and the principal cause at issue will be the somewhat celebrated suit of John I. Thompson vs. N. Christ, in which the former alleges heavy damages by reason of the latter entering and cutting timber on his lands on Snow Shoe mountain. The plaintiff is John I. Thompson, of Martha, this county, and the defendant N. Christ, of Lock Haven. As is usual in such trials, surveyors have been subpœnaed by the score and the recent advent of numerous strangers into our town will add to the interest and life of affairs during the week.

Rev. D. M. Wolf attended the Boys' Branch meeting on Monday evening, March 31. He also preached in the Reformed church in Williamsport, on Sunday, March 30. He reports that the schools of the county under his control are in an exceedingly satisfactory condition and he spends most of his time just now in going from place to place attending the closing entertainments of the schools. He has visited every school in the county except two during the past winter, and the only reason he did not visit them is because he arrived unexpectedly and it happened the teacher had closed the school for the day for some cause. Another notable fact is that out-door life has agreed so well with Prof. Wolf's physical health that he now tips the scales at 217 lbs.

—Meetings of the old and new councils were held Monday morning. Mr. Walkey, of the South ward, retires and Edward Brown, Jr., takes his place. In the North ward John Ardell, Jr., retires and H. K. Hicks will represent that populous section for awhile. The retiring members were both excellent councilmen and will be followed into private life by the well wishes of numerous friends. In the West ward L. L. Brown, Jr., succeeds himself and consequently there is not much choice between the old and the new. F. B. Crider was elected president of the new council and Mr. Isaac Mitchell clerk, both gentlemen unanimously. We believe that the first business meeting of the new council was held Monday evening.

—The Logan Hose Co., of this place, have recently added to their collection of fire apparatus an instrument called the Siamese connection. It is designed to be attached to plugs and is so arranged as to throw two streams of water through different lines of hose. A trial of it was made on Friday which was very satisfactory, a large stream of water being projected from the rear of the Bush Arcade building against the wind as far as the center of the High street bridge.

—Strawberries are exposed for sale in Harrisburg at 30 cents per box.
